Neil appointed to chair a department at LCCC

William Bruce Neil, of Dallas, has been appointed chairperson of the Hotel and Restaurant Department at Luzerne County Community College.

WILLIAM B. NEIL

Neil received an A.A.S. degree in Hotel Restaurant Management from LCCC, a B.S. in Hotel Administration from Cornell University, and The Educational Institute CHA from the American Hotel and Motel Association.

Neil has been a recipient of the LCCC Outstanding Faculty Award, the ARA Services Outstanding Service Award, the Lake Placid Chamber of Commerce Membership Award, and the Custom Management Corporation Distinguished Service Award. He has also been a member of Who's Who Among Innkeepers and was nominated as CASE Professor of the Year in 1989 and 1992.

Neil acted as sports venue food services director for ARA Food Services of Philadelphia, and was directly responsible for planning athlete and support personnel meals during the 1980 Winter Olympics. Solutions to many of the problems which Neil encountered during these Olympics Games were documented in detail and utilized at the 1988 Olympics in Calgary, Canada.

In 1989, Neil developed a course titled, "Computers in Industry," which provides hospitality students with an introduction to computers as they relate to specific industry applications. All training involved in this course is completed with a personal computer, so the student is continually in a lab environment.

LCCC has integrated Neil's course concept into other college curriculum such as Surgical Technology, Arts and Design, and Automobile Technology. The course has also been made available to industry and is easily customized to meet a company's specific needs.

Neil resides in Dallas with his wife, Judy and sons, Michael and Robert.

Neil will act as chairperson of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Department through the 1992-93 academic/fiscal year at LCCC.

Dreyfuss will run Hospice St. John Volunteer Service

Michelle Dreyfuss, Dallas, has been named Volunteer Services Manager at Hospice Saint John, a division of Lutheran Welfare Service of Northeastern Pennsylvania. The appointment was announced by Brian Thomas, administrator of Hospice Saint John.

In her new position, Dreyfuss will manage all activities related to recruiting and training volunteers for Hospice Saint John, which provides care to terminally ill people in a six-county region of Northeastern Pennsylvania. She will be developing new programs and opportunities for the many individuals who choose to volunteer for hospice.

Prior to joining Hospice Saint John, Dreyfuss was a consultant with the Grace Hill Neighborhood Health Center in St. Louis, Missouri. She also served as Administrator, Department of Surgery, of the State University of New York Health Science Center at Brooklyn, New York, and Coordinating Manager of Ambulatory Care at Bellevue Hospital in New York City.

Dreyfuss holds a Master of Health Services Administration from the University of Michigan, and a Bachelor of Arts in Economics from the same University.

Hospice Saint John is a specialized health care system that provides comfort and support, both physical and emotional, to terminally ill patients and their loved ones. Volunteers play an important role in the hospice health care system, providing a variety of services from fund raising, office work, and clerical support to direct patient care if that is their preference.

We Admit Some Of Our Branch Offices Are A Little Out-Of-The-Way.

Seaside spot or back-road stop. If you can get to a phone, you can get to the bank. At least, if you're one of our customers. Transfer funds? Of course. Find out if a check's cleared? Of course. Open accounts, pay loans, check balances? Of course, of course, of course. All week long, even nights. There's one hitch, though. First you have to have a checking account. But we'll give you a phone and six months of Telephone Bill-Paying free when you open one. And if you already have a checking account, well, you can get free stuff, too. Just stop by any office. Or call 1 800 245-4920 for details. And try this phone thing out.
