Antiques will be the stars of the auction

Antiques lovers are sure to find some very interesting and unusual pieces at the auction, both at the Antiques Booth and for sale across the block.

Hope Chollack, Julie Savage and Dr. Karen Boback have organized the antiques into four basic categories: kitchen, garden, den and children's items.

One of the more unusual items, a Hoosier kitchen cabinet from the Roaring 20s, was once a "must have" for housewives of that day who baked their own bread, cakes and rolls from scratch.

The self-contained unit, with its own flour sifter, porcelain counter and bread tin, is in excellent condition.

"Wicker is very popular, especially for the summer," Chollack said. "We have a lovely collection this year, including a desk, child's rocker and fernery, sure to please wicker enthusiasts."

Glass lovers will be intrigued by the Heisey, Westmoreland and Hull glassware, a signed Fenton fluted candy dish and a Bennington pitcher to be sold across the block.

"Aside from the exquisite antique furniture which has become the hallmark of the auction, we have placed additional emphasis this year on accessories and decorative items to fit any decor," Boback said.

Making their debut on the auction block this year are a collection of stuffed Teddy bears made from antique chenille bedspreads and a group of Christmas stockings made from antique linens and decorated with antique laces, ribbons, dried flowers, shells and vintage photos.

A special memento from the home of Mrs. Florence Crump, a quilt top ready for final finishing, will also be sold across the block.

In the curiosity department, several mustache mugs, a "Toby" mug and a plant stand in the form of a large porcelain turtle are sure to pique the visitors' interest.
