Back Mountain Dance Studio adds gymnastics

The Back Mountain Dance Studio isn't simply a place where kids learn how to dance.

Thanks to an innovative new program, they can now also learn basic gymnastics.

The award-winning studio has added an acrobatics team, scheduled for its first competition at the Mountain Laurel Resort in White Haven in April, 1994, according to owner Bob Oberst.

"The students learn more about movement, coordination and working together in beginning and advanced classes in basic tumbling, balance beam and other exercises. They have so much fun that they don't even know that they're learning something," he said.

So far, 70 students study gymnastics, while another 350 students ages three to 15 learn tap, jazz and modern dance.

While the studio accepts dance students as young as three years old, gymnastics students must be at least four years old, so that their bodies have an additional year to develop, Oberst said.

In operation since 1990, the Back Mountain Dance Studio has won 107 awards in dance competitions throughout the state.

A BAD ONE - The heavily damaged Nesbitt Hospital Medic-1 unit sits in a field opposite its garage on Route 118, where it was parked after having been involved in an accident with another car September 24.

Hospital, where they were treated and released, a hospital spokesman said.

Until the Medic-1 unit is repaired, an ambulance from Wilkes-Barre General Hospital will be stationed in the Back Mountain, according to Larry Pellagrini of Nesbitt Hospital's Community Relations Department.

Fire and ambulance personnel were assisted at the scene by police from Dallas Borough and Dallas Township and another Nesbitt Hospital Medic unit.

Lehman Township sergeant Howard Kocher investigated the accident.
