

College Night at LCCC

Luzerne County Community College will hold its annual College Night program on Thursday, Oct. 21 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the college's gymnasium on the main campus in Nanticoke.

This year's event marks the 20th anniversary of the program which is held in cooperation with the Luzerne County Counselors Association (LCCA).

Representatives from close to 100 colleges, universities, hospitals, post-secondary technical schools, and the armed services will be available to speak with prospective college students and parents about career opportunities and admission requirements. The representatives will distribute information on curriculum offerings at their respective institutions. Financial aid information sessions will be held throughout the evening.

Some of the institutions which will be presented at the annual LCCC College Night are, Cabrini College, Clarion University of PA, College Misericordia, Drexel University, East Stroudsburg University, Franklin and Marshall College, Juniata College, King's College, LaSalle University, Penn State-Wilkes-Barre, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, Rochester Institute of Technology, Slippery Rock University, Susquehanna University, Temple University, University of Notre Dame, University of Pittsburgh at Bradford, Ursinus College and Wilkes University.

The College Night program is open to the public, free of charge. For more information, call Francis Curry at 829-7343.

Mozart Club meets Oct. 18

The monthly meeting of the Mozart Club of Wilkes-Barre will be held on Monday, Oct. 18, at the Church of Christ Uniting, Kingston. A brief business meeting will precede the program, which will commence at 8 p.m.

George Howell, accompanied by Betty Porzuczek, will perform many well known and loved operatic arias as well as favorite musical pieces from both the past and the present. The program will evoke a sense of musical nostalgia as the performers transport the audience back to parlor singing a long of the past.

A well known musician, Powell studied at the Settlement School of Music and has performed in opera productions on both the east and west coasts. He has been a featured soloist in many Welsh Society Functions, and has been a church soloist and choir director in both Philadelphia and Los Angeles.

Betty Porzuczek, accompanist, is also well known as a musician. She is a professor at College Misericordia and an active member of the Organ Guild as well as the Mozart Club.

The Mozart Club is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

An open invitation is extended to the public to attend the club's meetings.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP ESTABLISHED - Scholarship recipients and members of the Office Personnel Scholarship Committee are, from left: Denise Rafferty, campus services; Joan Thomas, staff assistant, continuing education; Karen Berlew, staff assistant to registrar; scholarship recipients Wallace and Alber; Barbara Judge, staff assistant, admissions; Karen Brace-Hodley, staff assistant, faculty and Lorraine Mrackoski, staff assistant, student programs and services.

Penn State staff sets up new scholarship

Two adult undergraduate students at the Penn State Wilkes-Barre Campus are the recipients of a new scholarship established by the Campus' Office Personnel group. Sharing the scholarship of $1,000 for the 1993-94 academic year are Ben Wallace of Shavertown, majoring in Electrical Engineering Technology and Marion S. Alber of Bear Creek, majoring in Secondary Education. Through candy bar sales on the local Penn State campus in Lehman during the past academic year, the Office Personnel Group raised the money for the scholarship to provide recognition and financial assistance to undergraduate adult students who have completed at least 18 credits at the Wilkes-Barre campus and plan to continue their education there.

Shot fired at window of Dallas Boro home

By GRACE R. DOVE
Post Staff

Dallas Borough police and the Pennsylvania State Police Wyoming Barracks are investigating an incident in which a shot was fired through a bedroom window of a home at RR 4 Box 184 on Huntsville Road.

Police said that the homeowners, who were sleeping in the room at the time of the shooting, were awakened by a loud popping noise and tires squealing around 3 a.m. They saw tail lights going west on Huntsville Road toward the reservoir, police said. They were not injured.

According to the report, a shot was fired into the front of the residence where the bedroom is located, entered the bedroom window and lodged in the bedroom wall.

The home is set close to the road.

Patrolman Russ Devens, assisted by the Pennsylvania State Police Research and Identification unit, is investigating the incident.

State police were expected to question the home owners and take physical evidence late Tuesday, October 12.

Vandals

Griffiths said that five front door panes and a side window at the middle school and windows near the administrative office, in front of the auditorium and a connecting hallway at the high school had been damaged by gunfire.

"Someone stood in front of them and fired into them," he said.

At the football field, turf had been cut away to form the letters, approximately six feet high and five feet wide. The turf was moved aside but not taken from the field, Griffiths said.

Students weren't at school because of a teacher in-service Monday.

Behind yellow police tapes fluttering in the crisp fall breeze, each bullet hole at both schools had a note containing a short description neatly taped to the glass alongside it with silver duct tape.

"Someone knew what they were doing," said groundskeeper Gus Shuleski, carefully replacing the turf into the ground at the football field's 40-yard line. "These are straight cuts. It looks like they used a flat shovel."

Shuleski said that everything had been "OK" Sunday at a mini-football game at the football field.

"This will grow back," he added. "It's a good thing that we have an away game Saturday - it'll give it more time to settle."

High school principal Frank Galicki said that he didn't have an estimate yet because the double-glass windows had to be specially ordered.

The district plans to prosecute any suspects to the fullest extent of the law, Galicki said. If the suspect is a Dallas student, the district will prosecute under the juvenile codes and enact "severe discipline to the highest degree possible," he added.

"It's very disturbing to have these activities targeted at our school," said superintendent Gerald Wycallis at a school board meeting Monday night. "I'm putting the students on notice: if the persons who did this are Dallas students, we will recommend expulsion. If they're adults, we'll prosecute to the fullest extent of the law."

at the situation.

He will also request that the Office of Community Development survey the homeowners' incomes to determine if they meet the guidelines for a federal program to pay for paving the roads.

"If the incomes are too high and Crown Hill doesn't qualify, there's no other source," he said. "It's our only option."

"The ball is now in Franklin

Township's court," said Luzerne County's assistant solicitor Neil O'Donnell (no relation to Joseph). "As a public safety measure, we're willing to lay down gravel roads that meet state specifications if the township will accept them. The other option is for the township to agree to maintain the roads over the winter while we continue to negotiate."
