

Misericordia plans Oct. 31 "Halloween Health Fair"

Back Mountain and Wyoming Valley residents are invited to enjoy a day of scary fun and healthful education during a Halloween Health Fair, to be held at College Misericordia October 31. The fair is organized by Mercy Hospital and Misericordia, who joined forces to help educate the public on the benefits of good health.

The fair will be held in Misericordia's new Anderson Sports-Health Center on Sunday, October 31 from noon to 6 p.m. It is free and open to the public.

A committee of Mercy Hospital and Misericordia representatives is planning the day's activities, which include back evaluations, blood pressure and cholesterol screenings, cancer education, cardiac and diabetic assessments, hearing tests, pulse oximetry and children's health. Healthysnacks and refreshments will be available.

Special activities to entertain children include a puppet show and costume contest as well as free health screenings.

Literature and free information will also be on display throughout the Anderson Center. Trick or treat bags will be distributed so that people can gather brochures on health and wellness.

For more information, call 674-6372.

Susan Ford Bales to speak at Wilkes University Oct. 25

As part of its continuing efforts to heighten public awareness of the disease breast cancer, the Northeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundations, Inc. will host Susan Ford Bales on Monday, October 25 at 7 p.m. at the Arnaud C. Marts Center, Wilkes University Gymnasium, 274 South Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre.

Ms. Bales, daughter of former United States President Gerald R. Ford and his wife, Betty, a breast cancer survivor, will discuss "A Daughter's Story: Beating the Odds Against Breast Cancer." During her presentation, Ms. Bales will poignantly address the struggles both she and her mother faced in the Ford family's ultimate triumph over breast cancer. Ms. Bales is an advocate in the fight against this disease that claims one out of every nine American women, according to American Cancer Society statistics.

The Northeastern PA Chapter also strives to promote positive awareness of the importance of early detection of breast cancer through self-examination and mammograms; to support clinical research efforts in breast cancer treatment and prevention; and to educate the general public and health care professionals throughout Northeastern Pennsylvania about breast cancer.

Ms. Bales' presentation, held in conjunction with breast cancer awareness month, is a complimentary public service offered by Northeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of The Susan G. Komen Foundation. Donations received for a post program reception will assist the regional chapter in its efforts to provide screening mammograms for medically underserved women in its service area.

Immediately following Ms. Bales' presentation, a post program reception will be held at 9 p.m. at East Mountain Inn, 2400 East End Boulevard, Wilkes-Barre. A $10 donation is requested for the reception. Reservations are requested for both "A Daughter's Story: Beating the Odds Against Breast Cancer" and the post program reception. Please respond to either event by Wednesday, Oct. 20.

For more information or to make a reservation, please call 1-800-650-CURE or 283-7200.
