Income tax forms are available at library

By NANCY KOZEMCHAK

The Back Mountain Memorial Library has tax forms available for take out in the lobby of the library. The standard federal forms are available: 1040, 1040A and 1040EZ, along with with the instruction booklets to go with them. There are also available special forms such as: Schedule A Itemized deductions; Schedule 2 Child and Dependent care expenses; Schedule EIC Earned Income Credit; Form 8822 Change of Address.

The 1993 Pennsylvania tax forms are also available. There is also a packet of reproducible federal tax forms for use in libraries. These include almost all of the other forms you need and they can be copied on the copy machine for your use. There is a volume of Tax information publications of the most frequently requested publications which may also be photocopied. Publication 17, Your federal income tax guide for individuals for 1993 for use in preparing 1993 returns is also available for information.

New books at the library: "The Trouble With Thin Ice" by Camilla T. Crespi is a keenly plotted and atmospheric mystery. Simona Griffio, the New York ad exec and transplanted Italian who loves to cook and solve murders, finds herself skidding on ice as she attempts to help a friend. She joins Stan Greenhouse and his 14-year old son, Willy, on a trip to Connecticut for the holidays. Simona takes a midnight walk near a snow lake and discovers a body. A man named Kesho is suspect number one.

"The Slicing Edge of Death" by Judith Cook is a brilliant evocation of an era, a startling portrait of a tormented man, and a chillingly plausible solution to a mystery that has puzzled historians for centuries. With the aid of a forgotten manuscript, an unknown, unwitting actor and a mysterious widow, some of Britain's most powerful will conspire to make the plot complex, deadly and artfully engineered. Christopher Marlowe is notorious, recklessly wayward, blasphemous and scandalous.

"Love Stars and All That" by Kirin Narayan is a quixotic and charming romantic comedy in a whimsical portrait of a young Indian woman, who is on a quest for the perfect hero. The story takes place from the lively crossroads where two continents and several cultures meet. Gita, of late an overworked graduate student, finds the notion of dating as alien as the black leather with metal spikes daywear she sees out on Telegraph Avenue. Her astro-numerologist has predicted that in Chaitra 2040, Gita will meet her jori. Of, as they say in American, Mr. Right.
