

Brady

someone who knows a thing or two about winning.

"Brian Brady is a fierce competitor," said Dallas head coach Ted Jackson, who has established himself as one of the best coaches in the state, regardless of classification, during his nine seasons. "He can do it all. He can drop back or roll out and his ballhandling was great. His size and speed may have kept him from being a Division I quarterback, but Brian Brady is a big-time kid who can have an impact on the Shippensburg football program."

Brady knows that despite the success he enjoyed in high school, he'll have to work even harder to succeed on the collegiate level.

"I can't rely on my ability; everyone will be just as good as me, if not better," said the level-headed Brady, who is leaning towards a career in physical therapy but will enter his freshman year as an undecided major. "I have to work hard this summer, lifting weights and running. I want to gain between 15 and 20 pounds. I know I have a lot to learn. But coach (Jackson) taught me a lot about the game of football."

Shippensburg and Brady may turn out to be a perfect match. They run an offense (Delaware wing-T) similar to the Mount's style. Shippensburg has a senior returning at quarterback, but Reeves may want to turn the offense over to a young quarterback this season.

Like Jackson, Reeves was impressed with Brady's ability to pass, his ability to run an offense, but most of all, his ability to win.

"He (Reeves) said the biggest thing they were impressed with was my ability to win games," said Brady. "He said I have physical ability, but he was really impressed with the way I win games and he wants to win. There's going to be a lot of competition but there is a chance that a freshman might start."

Physically, Brady will be ready to play once the season begins in August. Now, he must prepare himself mentally.

"I'm confident in myself," said Brady. "It's going to be different in college. It's going to be a lot harder. But I'm going to work hard and go in there and give it my best shot. They're giving me the chance and that's all I've ever wanted - a chance."

Seasons

about to let one game ruin a season with so many highlights and great moments.

"I told them that we had so many good times this year, that we had so much fun, that one game couldn't diminish what we accomplished," said Wolensky, who saw his team lose in a wild, high-scoring affair. "We beat the defending league champion twice (Valley West), the defending district champion three times (Tunkhannock), and the number one seed from Lackawanna County. From our (pre-season) trip to Virginia to our comeback wins, we had a heck of a lot of fun. That's something no one can ever take away from us."

All three teams had plenty in common this season, especially in the title games.

Each lost to a hot team which was coming into the contest playing their best baseball or softball of the season. Each had at least one bad inning which contributed to the loss. Each team had the respective league's Most Valuable Player on their team; Kelly Janosky of Dallas softball; Jeff Kunkle of Dallas baseball and Ernie Chamberlain of Lake-Lehman baseball.

And finally, and perhaps ironically, with an outstanding group of talented underclassmen filling their rosters, each coach is already looking forward to next year's season.

"I'm energized for next season already," said Wolensky, who almost retired from the high school coaching profession last year after losing some enthusiasm for the job. "I think our program is in great shape, from the junior high right through high school, and I think we should be competitive for a number of seasons. This year's team really had a lot of heart and guts. I just hope next year's team can have the same."

Barbacci, whose school like Dallas, returns a host of talented underclassmen, is also looking to the future.

"I'm already looking forward to next year," said Barbacci, whose team played just two games in two weeks heading into the district title game. "We have a very good nucleus returning. We're going to rely on John (sophomore Oliver) and Geoff (freshman Engle) next year for our pitching. We've had a lot of success in our program over the years and I think it's still heading in the right direction."

For Pope, and the Dallas softball program, hands-on preparation for next season begins in less than a month.

"There's no doubt that we have an excellent group of kids returning next year," said Pope, who will have to replace senior Kelly Janosky, perhaps the best female athlete in the WVC in the past decade. "We'll start our informal training for next year in about one month. We have some holes to fill, but there's some good kids sitting on the horizon."
