

Dallas district asks new students to register now

The Dallas School District is requesting the cooperation of parents with children of school age who have not registered for the 1994-95 school year.

It is essential that the district be informed, as soon as possible, of all new students planning to register.

Problems occur with class and school building assignments as well as transportation arrangements when students are registered late.

Late elementary registrants may not be assigned to the most convenient school building.

All Kindergarten through 5th grade students are to register at the Administration Building, Church St., Dallas.

Middle and Senior High students will register at their respective school offices located on Conyngham Ave., Dallas.

Parents must bring birth certificates, report cards from the previous school and immunization records. No student will be allowed to enter school without proof of the required immunizations.

If there are any questions, call the school district at 675-5201.

Dallas students ring up big profit

Students from Dallas Elementary School were recognized for their success in trading stocks during the 1994 Stock Market Game competition in a ceremony held recently at the University of Scranton.

The Dallas team of Clint Barnes, Stephen Stolarick, Carrie Kieczkajlo and Rowdy Coyle finished first among 40 teams that competed in the grade 4-6 division of the game this spring in the Scranton-Central Susquehanna area. Linda Doughton, a teacher at Dallas Elementary, was the team advisor.

Each team involved in the Stock Market Game received $100,000 in imaginary money to obtain shares of the stocks of real companies. The goal was to have the highest equity value (cash and stock values) at the end of the 10-week competition.

The Stock Market Game is an EconomicsAmerica program sponsored by the Pennsylvania Council on Economic Education.

The Dallas team finished with a portfolio value of $103,887, mainly by buying computer industry stocks.

Steelman wins biology award from Wilkes Univ.

Wilkes University senior Scott Steelman recently received the biology department's Biology Research Award for discovering a way to estimate the genetic damage caused by the chromium.

With Scott's new twist on this kind of research, scientists can better estimate the impact of this substance on mice, and perhaps one day, humans, according to Dr. Lester Turoczi, his research supervisor.

Heavy metals such as lead and chrome, found in junk yards across the country, may be just as deadly Turoczi said. As the chrome bumpers and wheels decompose over time, chromium enters the water table. Scientists must learn how this affects the safety of water supplies.

Steelman's interest in this research was fueled by his experience with sophisticated laboratory techniques at Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia last summer. He will return to the University to begin graduate studies this fall.
