

Computer workshops offered at Penn State

A series of microcomputer workshops will begin at the Penn State Wilkes-Barre Campus, March 1 in which participants will receive hands-on training on individual computer stations in the new state-of-the-art micro-computer lab at the campus in Lehman.

- Workshops in the basics include keyboarding skills, introduction to computers, the Windows 3.1 environment, and using DOS 6.2.

- Word processing workshops include Word 6.0, WordPerfect 6.0 and WordPerfect 5.1.

- Spreadsheet workshops are in Excel 5.0 and Lotus 1-2-3, and an introduction to database management workshop will use Microsoft's Access program.

- Penn State also offers desktop publishing workshops in Powerpoint, CorelDraw, WordPerfect 6.0 Graphics, Aldus Pagemaker 5.0 and three network training courses on Novell, taught by an industry specialist.

- A new 13-week course entitled Microcomputer Applications in Business which can be taken for three credits or as a non-credit workshop, which provides an introduction to the current and most frequently used software applications in business - Windows, Word, Excel, Powerpoint and Access.

- Demonstration courses on the Internet, the information superhighway, which will include the history, user tools, and implications for the future of communications, will be offered in June.

The workshops and courses are taught by Penn State faculty. Fees and times for the day and evening workshops vary.

For a complete listing of workshops, descriptions and fees, contact Janet Rosenbaum, Penn State Wilkes-Barre Continuing Education, 675-9102.

Prize-winning dancers

The dance group "High Energy" recently attended the Eastern Performing Arts Competition in McAfee, NJ, where they were awarded the title "Best Overall Group" for having the highest combined scores in their age division and first place awards in novelty, pantomime and ethnic in which they performed a Spanish tap routine.

The Dallas Post is now on info highway

The Dallas Post has turned onto the "Information Superhighway" by establishing an electronic mailbox with the EPIX system operated by Commonwealth Telephone. By using the E-mail address, readers will be able to electronically send letters, articles, and advertising to The Post.

The electronic address for The Dallas Post is dallpost@epix.net. All lower-case letters should be used when calling that address, which is accessible through the main EPIX number at 674-0050.

Subscribing to the system also will give The Post access to the Internet and Worldwide Web of electronic information, including several major news services. While The Post seldom publishes other than local news, these services can be a useful resource for background material about issues, individuals, companies and organizations which may have connections to the Back Mountain.

The Post will check its electronic mailbox regularly. All restrictions that apply to items sent through the mail will apply:

- Letters to the editor must include the name of the writer, and a phone number where he or she may be reached for verification.

- Items for publication should pertain to the Back Mountain. All items should include a contact person's name and phone number. Anyone routinely sending items not about the Back Mountain will receive a written notice to stop doing so.

- The deadline for news items is 5 p.m. the Friday prior to publication. Anything received after that time may not appear in the following issue.

- The deadline for display and classified advertising placed by E-mail will be 12 Noon on Mondays. All existing restrictions for pre-payment, credit and content will apply. All advertisers must include a name and phone number for the person placing the ad.

Workshop on starting a small business March 15

The Small Business Association (SBA) and The Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) will conduct a workshop "Starting and Managing a Small Business" on March 15 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Genetti & Convention Center, 77 E. Market St., Wilkes-Barre.

This all-day workshop is for people that are thinking of going into business or have done so recently and need assistance. It will cover legal aspects, taxes and records, organizational structure, insurance, licenses and financing available.

The cost of the workshop is $25 and includes instructional materials, refreshments and lunch.

The Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) is a resource of individuals who want to start a small business or for an existing business in need of assistance. Score members are volunteer retired or professional people with experience that can be of a great help in solving business problems. This service is free and sponsored by The Small Business Administration.

For more information contact the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) of SBA, 20 North Pennsylvania Ave. Wilkes-Barre, PA 18701-3589. Telephone 826-6502.

Program to help families of wanderers

The Northeast Pennsylvania Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association assists in the return of "wanderers" adults suffering from dementia who have become lost and incapable of finding their way home through its Safe Return Program.

By providing identity bracelets, clothing labels and wallet cards to the registrants and placing their names and identifying information in a national computer network, families can increase the likelihood of identification of the AD patient and speed valuable information to emergency search personnel.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Safe Return Program is encouraged to call the Chapter office at 1-800-773-6677.

Unused Girl Scout uniforms needed

Do you have a Girl Scout uniform hanging around the house which is no longer in "service"? Why not donate it to a Girl Scout who is in need of a uniform. There are lots of girls, Daisies, Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors in need of uniforms, who would be happy to receive and "recycle" these uniforms which are collecting dust in closets, drawers, and attics.

To donate, or even part of a uniform, contact Jamie Kozemko at 696-3595, or the Council office at 829-2631. Your gift will be very much appreciated.
