Clubs give students confidence

By VALERIE WOLFE
Student Correspondent

Every club at Lake-Lehman High School is designed to pull students together and to participate in activities which would make the school district proud. An example of such a group would be T.S.A.

T.S.A. stands for Technology Student Association. This national organization was created by industrial arts teachers who wanted to give their students opportunities to be recognized for their accomplishments during technology education or industrial art courses.

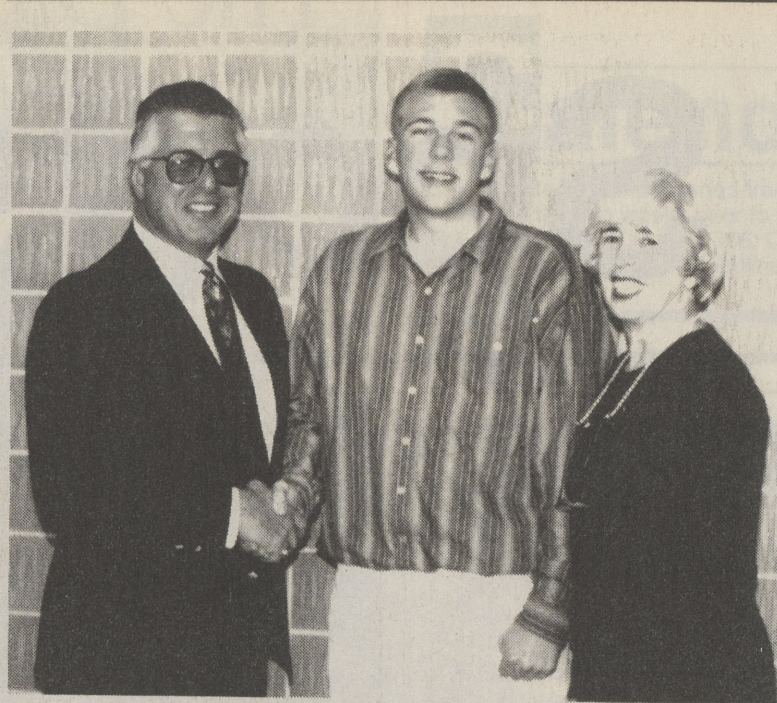

The teachers who advise T.S.A. are Byron Race, Dave Hopfer, Dan Williams and John Holdridge. The student president is Linda Lanning. These people dedicate much of their time to help the students prepare their work for big competitions. They are also very supportive and teach the members that winning isn't everything.

Yearly, T.S.A. members have several chances to compete against other chapters. Twenty two students participated in a regional competition held at Penn State Wilkes-Barre campus on February 24. All of the students who went to regionals will also be attending state competition April 27-29 at Seven Springs Resort, Champion, PA.

There are several classifications in which a T.S.A. member can compete. Besides the typical shop categories, there are also competitions in extemporaneous speaking, prepared speech, and photography. The variety of choices allows the students to choose the event for which they are best qualified.

While some schools in southern Pennsylvania have hundreds of members in T.S.A., Lake-Lehman is a relatively small competitor; yet it does rather well for its size.

Jaci Race, who is a senior at Lake-Lehman, has been a member of T.S.A. for a number of years. "It is a good group of kids. They are very dedicated to their work and the club. It is a shame that more people are not involved in this learning experience," she said.

To attend youth conference

Jason Campbell, a sophomore at Dallas Senior High School, has been selected as the representative to the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation Seminar, a youth leadership competition which identifies, recognizes and rewards leadership potential in high school sophomores.

Jason will attend The Central Pennsylvania Seminar at Millersville University in May 1995. Jason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Campbell of Shavertown. Congratulating Jason are Frank Galicki, principal and Mrs. Patricia Russin, guidance counselor.
