

Watchfire vigil May 28 will honor all POW's and MIA's

At dusk on May 28 the Dallas American Legion will hold an all-night watchfire and vigil in honor of the POW's and MIA's of all wars who have not returned to American soil. Legion Commander Charney has asked all members of the legion to participate in the event to honor their comrades and remind people that many of their family and friends have not come back from the conflicts of the past, as a hope this will never happen to our country again.

Charney reminds the public that anyone wishing to dispose of flags that are no longer in use may bring them to the legion for disposal with dignity and honor.

Throughout the evening shelter will be provided and coffee and donuts will be served to all participants. A guard will be posted at the Watchfire all evening.

For more information contact the Dallas American Legion at 675-6542 or any member.

Items are needed for BMT Memorial Library auction

Odds and Ends are being solicited for the annual Back Mountain Memorial Library Auction and may be delivered to the library any time during business hours.

All types of items such as dishware, workable appliances, children's toys, plush toys, sports items, kitchen items, wall hangings, knick-knacks, records, tapes and almost any usable item are welcome.

No clothing or furniture will be accepted.

Co-chairman Sybil Pelton and Mary George suggest that persons holding garage sales may donate unsold items to the library following their sales. All donated material is priced and sold at the Library Auction, scheduled for July 6-9 at the library grounds.

Used books booth chairman Benny Matchett is soliciting all types of books, including paperbacks and quality specialized magazines. These may also be left at the library during operating hours.

Every year hundreds of shoppers locate unusual goods and books at the Odds and Ends tent and Book Booth at bargain prices, while at the same time contributing to a community resource.
