Steven Losh of Dallas shows off the trophy he won recently in the Walleye Tournament at Lake Carey. Steven will be 5th grade student at Dallas Elementary this fall

Steven Losh takes second in walleye fishing tourney

Steven Losh, age 9, of Hildebrandt Road, Dallas recently won second place in the Third Annual Walleye Tournament at Lake Carey, held annually by the Lake Carey Sportsmen's Club.

Steven was the youngest of more than 50 anglers to compete. He also won the "Lunker Award" for the largest fish caught during the tournament (any species).

He received a large trophy and $103.50 for second place in the tournament and $185 for the "Lunker Award". Steven was thrilled to win so much money for something he really likes to do and can't wait to enter another tournament.

Steven and his father, Mike fish year-round, including ice fishing during the winter.

Steven received three Junior Citations from the Pennsylvania Fish Commission - one for perch, one for bluegill and one for rock bass.

Mark Howell earns PhD

Dallas native Mark Howell recently completed a Ph.D. in American culture studies at Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

The son of Glenn and Virginia Howell of East Dallas, Mark specialized in twentieth-century American history and material culture. His doctoral dissertation, From Moonshine to Madison Avenue: A Cultural History of the NASCAR Winston Cup Series, is being prepared for publication as a book by University of Illinois Press.

A 1983 graduate of Dallas Area High School, Howell received a bachelor's degree in English and a master's degree in American studies from Penn State University. He is currently an adjunct history professor at Tiffin University in Ohio, where he teaches Western civilization and political science. Howell has also taught at Bowling Green State University, the University of Toledo and Defiance College.

As an automobile historian, Howell is chief historian for the Barney Oldfield Transportation Museum in Wauseon, Ohio. Howell is now writing a cultural biography about Oldfield, America's first professional race car driver. On July 19, Dr. Howell spoke at the Motorsports Hall of Fame in Novi, Michigan, about his work on Barney Oldfield.

Howell also compiled and edited a collection of writings about automobiles, Vehicles of Change: An Anthology of American Automobile Culture, done in conjunction with Greyden Press in 1993.

Howell has also served as a consultant to the North Carolina Auto Racing Hall of Fame. This proposed facility, located near Mooresville, is associated with Penske Racing South, the team that campaigns Ford Thunderbirds with Rusty Wallace.

Dr. Howell is now working with car collector Alex Beam on a stock car museum for the Charlotte, North Carolina, region.

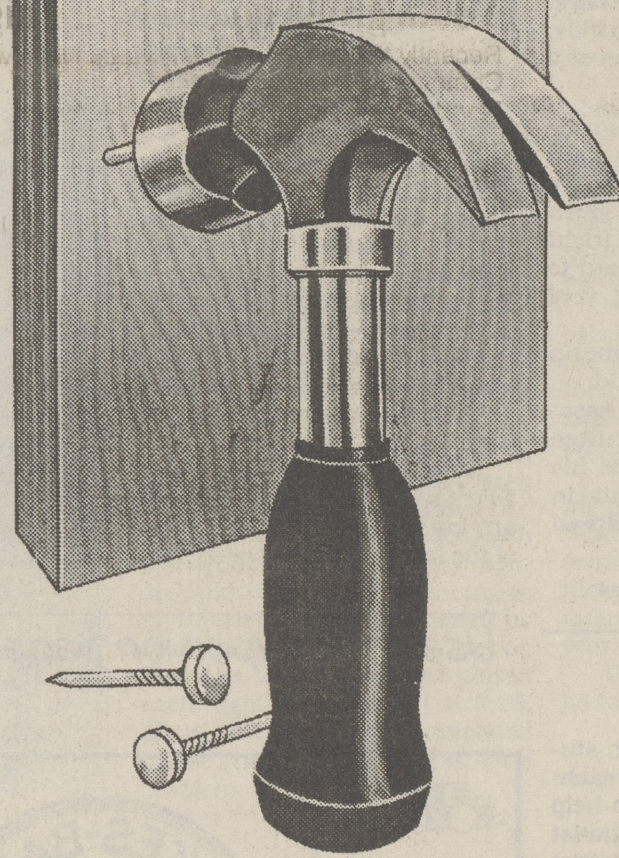

Howell and his wife, Bonnie, a high school French and English teacher, reside in Bowling Green, Ohio.
