Library to host discussion on women's literature

Sept. 22 registration deadline, limit of 20

The Back Mountain Memorial Library, Dallas, will host a reading-and-discussion group on women's literature through a program developed by the Pennsylvania Humanities Council. The Library is the first in Luzerne County to take advantage of this program.

The group will meet at the library at 96 Huntsville Road, Dallas, for six Mondays, October 23, November 6, November 20, December 4, January 15 and January 29, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

The program, entitled Through Women's Eyes III: From Girls to Women, explores the experience of girls growing up in a variety of cultures. Involved are the kinds of ceremonies and traditions which mark the transition from girlhood to womanhood, and what the different expectations about education, work, independence, love and family are. Readings include: Ellen Foster by Kaye Gibbons; Browningirl Brownstones, by Paule Marshall; and A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, by Betty Smith and others.

The discussions will be led by Patricia Hinchey, who received Bachelor's and Master's degrees in English Education from Wilkes University, and her doctorate in English Education from Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. She is an Assistant Professor of Education at Penn State Worthington Campus, Scranton, and has had experience in leading the Through Women's Eyes discussion group.

Participants will receive their own copies of the books to be discussed. There is a $20 registration fee for the sessions. The group will be limited to 20 persons. Registrations will be taken on Friday, Sept. 22 ONLY, at the Back Mountain Memorial Library, 96 Huntsville Road, Dallas from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Checks must accompany registration, and should be made payable to the library.

Speaker will help readers appreciate popular fiction

The speaker will be Dr. Sally Mitchell, professor of English and affiliated professor of Women's Studies, Temple University, Philadelphia. She received her bachelor's degree in speech and education at the University of Colorado, her master's degree in English at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, and her Ph.D. degree in English literature at Oxford University.

She was a Fulbright scholar at Oxford in 1972-73. Her publications include Victorian Britain: An Encyclopedia, and The Fallen Angel: Chastity, Class and Women's Reading, 1835-1880. In her talk, Dr. Mitchell will introduce critical approaches that will help readers to understand the pleasures of light fiction (and avoid arguments about its literary value).

The Council is a private non-profit organization serving the Commonwealth as an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.
