Middle School students fare well at Renaissance Faire

Recently the gifted students from the Dallas Middle School attended the Renaissance Faire in Mt. Hope, PA and competed against other middle school pupils in various contests throughout the day. They won awards in every event that they entered.

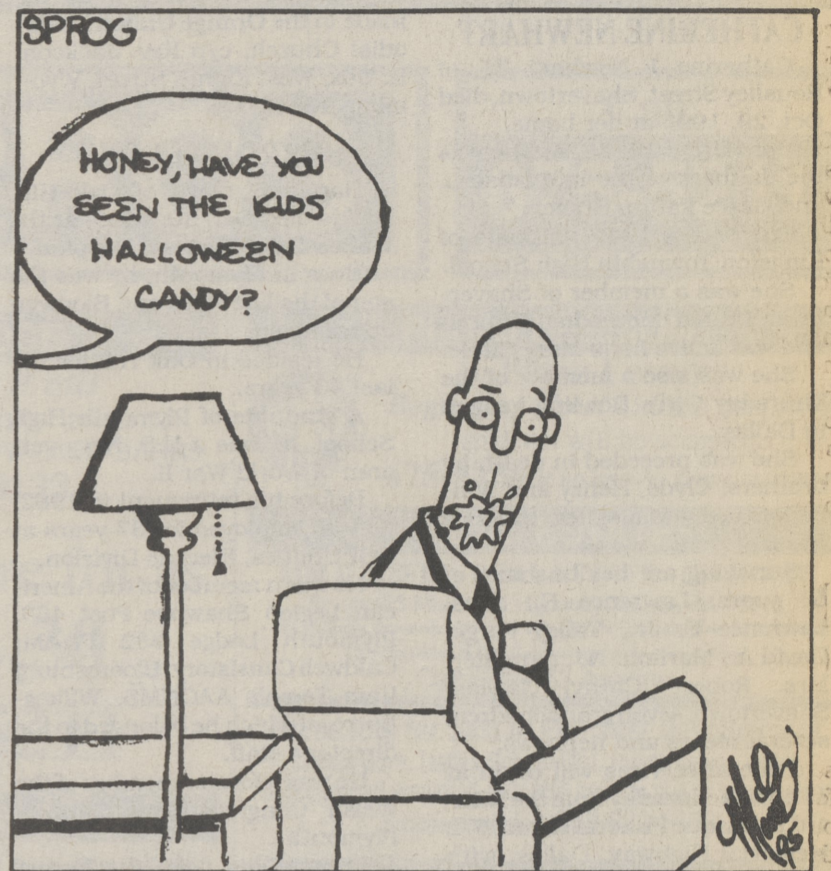

The aim of the heraldry contest was to design a banner reflecting the school's philosophy. The banner was designed by the team of Matt Eyt, Shana Baker, Andrew George, John Bednarz, Lindsay Carpenter, Bethany Brown, Emily Fritz and Seth Yeager, placed second in the competition.

In the costume competition Elizabeth Eby placed second in the peasant category. Norah Krakosky, Morgan McOwen and Deirdre

McLaughlin took second honors in the small group Madrigal performance. Ken Bauer's Renaissance Faire poster took third place in the sixth grade division. The theater group, comprised of Deirdre McLaughlin, Bethany Brown and Michael Davies received special commendation for their performance.

Michael Davies and Norah Krakosky were chosen to be the lord and lady of Dallas. They received their titles during a ceremony presided over by Queen Elizabeth I of England.

Between competitions the students were able to view various reenactments depicting aspects of medieval life.

Our new SAT class begins soon...

People wonder why we start our programs for the SAT so early. The reason is simple...it works. We begin in November for the Spring. Significant point gains on the SAT take time. Most other programs hustle students in and out of a eight or nine week program and send them on their way. We like to keep your kids ...they do better.

We offer a structured, process approach to the SAT. Our students average 200 plus point gains, and are the best prepared for the test.

We were the first to offer junior year programs... the first to offer free refreshers for subsequent SAT exams. Now we are the first to begin getting students ready for the Spring.

The cost? Our fees are nearly 50% less than the competition, and they have no refreshers. And our fee remain the same no matter when you begin. A student preparing now for the Spring simply gets more preparation. It's the best deal in the valley, from the best test preparation program in the area.
