BUSINESS BRIEFS

Watercolors displayed at Pine Brook

Watercolors by four regional artists will be on display the next few weeks at the Pine Brook Restaurant, Lower Demunds, Road, Dallas.

The Pine Brook features different area artists' work throughout the year. "We think it adds a personal touch to the dining environment, and at the same time promotes the region's talent," said Joe Mooney, the restaurant owner.

Featured artists this spring are Sue Hand, Dallas; Rodrica Tilley, Montrose; and the husband and wife team of Renee Emanuel and Bill Teitsworth, Moscow.

Seamstress opens on Ryman Road

Don't have time to replace a zipper? No sewing machine to stitch a seam? Need help raising or lowering a hemline? Can't thread a needle, let alone sew on a button?

"Cloth & Needle," a small custom tailoring business on Ryman Road may be the answer to the woes of the sewing-challenged.

Owner Lynda Gross will tackle any type of alterations or repairs to any size or style of clothing, from pants to prom dresses. She can adjust dress, skirt and pants hems, shorten sleeves, fix coats and replace zippers on any fabric.

Lynda can also make or alter draperies, curtains or other window treatments, and offers free pickup and delivery within a limited area. Call her at 675-1917 for more information and prices.

Charlene Montante to visit Women's Conference June 1

Approximately 700 people from 18 area counties are expected on June 1, for the Luzerne County Women's Conference at the Penn State University Wilkes-Barre Campus, Dallas.

Keynote speaker Charlene Montante, will start the day with her address, "No Fear in Your Future," discussing ways in which women can rid themselves of fears that prevent them from succeeding in their careers and their lives.

A native of Pittston, Montante is vice president of finance for Universal Studios Hollywood.

Her professional career spans 16 years of financial management, including positions with the "Big 6" Accounting Firm - KPMG Peat Marwick film production and distribution companies - Hanna Barbera productions and ITC Entertainment, computer software development and publishing companies and theme park, retail and restaurant operations.

Ms. Montante resides in Los Angeles, California with her 13-year-old son, Michael Moore. She is the daughter of Chester Montante, Pittston, and the late Concetta Montante.

The Annual Luzerne County Women's Conference, now in its 12th year, is sponsored by the Wyoming Valley Women's Network. The Women's Network, founded in 1984, is open to anyone who shares its goals of improving the climate for women in Northeastern PA.

This year's conference will offer 50 workshops. Among the topics are "Marketing Your Business: Strategies for Success", "How to Say What You Mean and Get What You Want", "Batik on Rice Paper" and "Reiki and The Human Energy Field".

For more information the Women's Network can be reached by mail at W.V.W.N., Box 2686, Wilkes-Barre, PA 18703 or call 717-283-1725 or 1-800-517-5430.
