DeCesaris will attend King's

Angelo DeCesaris, a football standout at Lake-Lehman High School, has announced he will continue his academic and athletic careers at King's College.

DeCesaris, a 6'2", 215-pound linebacker-nose guard, was a first team Wyoming Valley Conference All-Star as a senior and has been selected to play in the UNICO All Star Game this summer. As a senior, he made 74 solo tackles with 20 assists, including 12 tackles for losses, three quarterback sacks, one pass interception for a Black Knight defense which posted four shutouts and yielded only seven points per game.

A three-year letter winner, DeCesaris helped Lehman reach post-season playoff action each of the past three years.

DeCesaris will major in business at King's and was selected to Who's Who Among High School Students. He was a member of Lehman's Student Council and volunteers his time as a coach for the Back Mountain Tee-Ball Team.

He also excelled in basketball and was a second-team WVC All-Star and was among the top scorers in Division II. He also participated in the 3-point shooting competition at the WVC Senior All-Star Game.

Ted Jackson Jr., center, was flanked by his parents, Ted Sr. and Sandy when he announced his intention to attend Lycoming College in the fall. Dallas High School principal Frank Galicki stood behind Jackson.

Jackson

Lycoming also recruited Ted for the position he prefers and at which he excels - quarterback.

"They were recruiting four quarterbacks, and Ted is the only one they got," said Ted Sr., also the head football coach at Dallas.

"They have a strong senior coming back, the kid's an academic all-american, but after that there's only two (current) freshman and one of them is switching positions."

"The senior is outstanding," said Ted Jr. "I'm going to contribute wherever I can this year and be ready to play as a sophomore."

As many as seven or eight schools expressed a strong interest in Jackson. Lycoming won out over Gettysburg, Stony Brook, Ithaca, Fordham and Lehigh. Fordham recruited him as a defensive back while Lehigh was looking to move him to wide receiver.

Lycoming's proximity to the Back Mountain, a little over an hour drive, was a key determining factor.

"I'll be the one doing most of the traveling," said Sandy Jackson, "since Ted will need to coach the team here. Most of the road games are within a decent radius too."

An honor student at Dallas, Jackson was a member of student council and has been selected to Who's Who Among High School Students. During the winter months he starred on the basketball court and concluded his Dallas cage career as a 1,000 point scorer. Football has always been his first love, however.

"I wanted to play in college," said Ted Jr. "I probably realized I had a good chance to do so during my junior season. Playing and contributing (alongside) that group of guys, I realized I was going to be all right."

Dallas compiled a 45-7 record during his four years with the team and won the PIAA, Class AA state championship when Ted was a sophomore, basically playing wide-out. He's earned the praise of opposing coaches as a defensive back, but really made things happen during his tenure as Mountaineer signal-caller.

Jackson passed for 2,414 yards and 33 touchdowns. He also scored 16 touchdowns and rushed for 1,029 yards while being honored as a two-time all conference selection.

"Ted is an excellent quarterback prospect who possesses outstanding speed and the ability to make things happen," said Girardi. "We expect Ted to make a positive contribution to our program and we're looking forward to having him in our program for the next four years."

Over the summer he'll work a regular regime of weightlifting, running and throwing. Ted the younger will represent Dallas one more time at this summer's UNICO game, but is anxiously awaiting the arrival of fall.

"This (recruiting) has taken so much time, that I'm probably ready right now," said Ted Jr.

Sporting smiles, both Teds admitted on Monday that the feeling of accomplishment and euphoria ranked up their with winning the state title.

"It's exciting," said Ted Sr., who played for East Stroudsburg University. "I certainly would have loved to see him at a Division I school, but if you're going to play at Division III, you might as well go to the best."

It's possible that he'll still have a son on the sidelines this fall. Matt, a freshman to be, will be given a shot at a varsity spot. Ted and Sandy also have a daughter, Jill.
