PSU to offer career exploration camps

High school students will have a unique opportunity this summer at Penn State Wilkes-Barre with four weeks of Career Exploration Camps to help them make informed choices about their future careers.

Before committing to a major in college or accepting a position in the workforce, the students will learn what the opportunities are for employment, and discover the pros and cons of many careers.

Careers in business science and technology, health care, food service, education, engineering and social services will be explored.

Camps are held Monday through Friday, 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Students may sign up for only one week or any combination of weeks. For more information, contact Jennifer Youngman, Continuing Education at 675-9220.
