

Bar fight brings 7 arrests

HARVEYS LAKE - Seven people have been charged as the result of an altercation that took place just after midnight July 22 outside of TJ's Sports Bar.

According to a complaint filed by Harveys Lake patrolman James Karlowicz, he was called to a fight in progress at the bar. He called for backup and patrolman Jack Healey of Lehman Twp. responded.

When Karlowicz arrived at the bar, the complaint said he was met by Michael Ondish, who identified himself as a co-owner of TJ's, and Mark Zapoticky and Robert Scott, bouncers. They said a fight had occurred after they told William Tattersall he could not leave the bar with an open beer in his hand.

When Tattersall left the bar, they said, they followed him out to the corner of Noxen Rd. and Lakeside Dr., where Scott tried to grab the beer from Tattersall. Tattersall pushed Scott and tried to punch him before Zapoticky grabbed Tattersall in a bear hug. At that point, Scott and Zapoticky said they were jumped by four or five men, and in the ensuing fight Scott was stabbed and Zapoticky's earring was ripped out. They identified the alleged assailants as Jason Boice, William Tattersall, Kevin Mack and Irving Tattersall.

Ondish, Scott and Zapoticky also said that Irving Tattersall kept saying, "I'll kill them, do you want me to kill them." They said they believed he may have had a gun because he kept his right hand by his belt line.

Ondish, Boice, Zapoticky, Mack, William Tattersall and Scott were charged with one count each of simple assault, harassment and stalking and disorderly conduct. Irving Tattersall faces two counts each of simple assault and harassment and stalking, and one count of disorderly conduct.

since she was in seventh grade, and has been an assistant art instructor at Sue Hand's Imagery in Dallas for the past two years. She also earned a scholarship to attend Marywood College's summer program in 1995.

Jessie has won numerous awards in area juried art exhibitions and at the Luzerne County Fair and was the featured artist of the month for March in radio station WRCN's Christian calendar.

She is also a four-year member of a teen artists' Bible study group, the Cider Painters of America, National Junior Achievement and a U.S. National Art Award winner.

As a member of St. Therese's Church in Shavertown, Jessie has taught a first grade CCD class for the past two years and served as peer/facilitator for the parish's confirmation program.

She said she stayed in Scouting because "it's a part of my life."

"It never occurred to me to quit," she said. "It's really worth it. My life is so much easier because of what I've learned from Scouting. I have become more open-minded and am able to relate to all types of people. Scouting has brought me out of my shell - I was very shy. You don't realize how much Scouting has done for you until you're out of it."

Of all the people she has met through the Girl Scouts, Jessie most admires her mother, Jamie, who was Troop 622's leader.

"Mom is strong-willed and determined," Jessie said. "She comes up with wonderful ideas and is a great leader. She loves Scouting so much."

Jessie reflected on a comment Hand made one day at the studio.

"Sue said I always go above and beyond the call of duty," she said. "Scouting did that for me - no matter what, I'll always be involved in it one way or another."

After a summer teaching at Sue Hand's Imagery, Jessie plans to attend Marywood College to study art education.

Girl Scout troops need leaders

The Back Mountain is home to 21 Girl Scout troops organized into two neighborhoods - Dallas/Lehman (Neighborhood 24) and Shavertown/Trucksville (25).

This spring 37 Daisy Scouts in three troops became Brownies, while 59 Brownies in nine troops became Junior Girl Scouts.

Eighteen girls in seven Junior troops became Cadette Scouts, while five Cadettes became Senior Girl Scouts and six Seniors became adult volunteers.

Two area young women earned their Senior Girl Scout Gold Award, Scouting's highest award, by completing required community service projects, merit badges and other work.

In addition to working on merit badges, Daisies, Brownies and Girl Scouts explore the outdoors, careers, travel, science, health and fitness, the role of women in a changing world and many other interesting topics.

At least half of the women accepted at our country's military academies are Gold Award Girl Scouts, according to council communications specialist Ellie Kandler Rodda.

The Penn's Woods Girl Scout Council needs adult volunteers and troop leaders for troops in all age groups, especially Cadettes and Seniors (young women in middle school and high school.) Leaders don't need to have daughters in Scouting, Rodda said.

about the health, safety and welfare of our citizens due to the de-manning of the towers."

One township resident asked if it would be possible to circulate a citizens' petition in favor of keeping the guard towers open. Glogowski said, "If anyone in the community wishes to head up a petition they may do so for more impact," adding that "all of our state representatives have supported us in writing."

Solicitor Blythe Evans said that refinancing of the township's loan for existing debt is completed. The original loan with PNC for $172,539.34 at 4.77% was refinanced with Franklin First Savings at a rate of 3.95%, saving the township approximately $3,000.

Glogowski said the open burning ordinance is being reviewed and revised for adoption at the next meeting. Incinerator burning now is allowed from daybreak to dark but the proposed changes may limit it to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday, with no burning allowed on Sundays or legal holidays. Also, open burning would be eliminated on lots less than an acre.

Township resident John Filip of Huntsville Rd. inquired about the status of the American Asphalt situation, which involves mining operations being conducted outside the mining district. Solicitor Evans responded that he would not advise discussing it in public since legal action is involved, but would see Filip privately after the meeting.

In other business:

- A contract was awarded to Figlock Construction Co., White Haven, for $35,990 for construction of a township salt storage facility.

- A contract was awarded to Vincent Construction Co., Benton, for $1,050 for repairs to a 150 ft. section of Sutton Road in Jackson Twp.

- A special meeting is being held Mon., Aug. 26 at 7 p.m. to discuss a dangerous building ordinance.

- The supervisors appointed township resident Harry Wilson to the recreation board to fill an unexpired term.

- It was announced that officer Barry Stubeda successfully completed his probationary period with the township police department.

Kingston Twp. permits total $2 million

Kingston Township Zoning Officer Benjamin Gorey granted 51 building and zoning permits in July, and collected $9,990 in fees. The total value of the projects was $2,007,834. Included were six new homes ranging in value from $77,000 to $165,000 and two inground pools. The largest project was for offices at Pendragon Plaza on the site of the former Howard "Duke" Isaacs auto dealership. A Pickett Construction received a permit for work valued at $1.1 million on the site.
