The most important lesson parents can teach their children...
 Be wise when it comes to your eyes!

As you get your children ready for school, focus on what is essential to academic success. A thorough vision analysis and top-quality eye exam is most important for children from the pre-school to college. Vision problems that can impede learning may be detected — and corrected — ensuring that your children are ready to learn.

Dr. Curtis Goodwin is a skilled professional (and a concerned parent) who uses state-of-the-art equipment and his vast experience in Pediatric Optometry for the benefit of your children's eyesight.

Make the grade — schedule an appointment to have your children's eyes examined by Dr. Goodwin — you'll be glad you did.
