

Peter Nulton studies archaeology in Rome

Peter E. Nulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Edgar Nulton, Dallas, has been selected to participate in the 1997 Classical Summer Session of the American Academy in Rome, Italy.

PETER NULTON

The Academy, established over 100 years ago, is the American overseas center for independent study and advance research in the fine arts and humanities and fosters excellence in scholarship. In addition, the New York Classical Club honored Peter at their spring meeting when they officially announced that they were awarding him the Rome scholarship for his study at the American Academy.

While in Italy, Peter visited many of the major archaeological sites. Before returning to the U.S., Peter will visit some of the best preserved Roman sites in Tunisia. Nulton is pursuing a doctorate in archaeology at the Center for Old World Archaeology and Art at Brown University. In addition to having completed course work under the direction of Dr. Ross Holloway and Dr. Rolf Winkles, Peter has served as a curatorial assistant under the direction of Dr. Jean Keith.

Peter has visited and studied at archaeological sites in Greece, Turkey, Italy, France and Spain. He has excavated and served in supervisory capacities under the auspices of the Greek Ministry of Antiquities in Corfu, where he joined teams of specialists from the University of Louvain-la-Neuve, Belgium and Brown University, Rhode Island.

This is the second time that Peter has won admittance to study at a prestigious institution overseas. During the 1995-96 school year, Peter studied at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece, on a scholarship from Brown University.

He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Fordham University, New York with a double major in Classical Languages and Fine Arts and a minor in Classical Civilizations.

A graduate of Bishop Hoban High School, Wilkes-Barre, Nulton is a member of the American Philological Association, The Archaeological Institute of America, The New York Classical Club, the International Society for the study of Greek and Roman Music, The American Numismatic Society, and the International Association on the study of Ancient Baths.

Peter is a member of Gate of Heaven Church and a third degree knight in the Father O'Leary Council of the Knights of Columbus.
