AND A GOOD BOOK WAS READ BY ALL

Books and posters were everywhere at the Westmoreland Elementary School book fair last week. In top photo, Ben Lewis and Garrett Konecke took a 3-D look at some scary fish. Eric and Linda Baines, above left, shared a story. Sarah Kerepovich had a poster that provoked a lively discussion among the kids. "Can a dog really have kittens?" they asked.

Prince of Peace craft show Nov. 5

The Prince of Peace Episcopal Churchwomen are planning their 21st Annual Craft Fair to be held Wed., Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Parish House, Main Street, Dallas. Some of the featured craftspeople include: Bernardine Vojtko, Tina Urban, Eileen Siehler, Nulton & Kreller, Bonnie Bell Baker, Stephanie Marquette and Hugh Malone Sr. They will offer wares such as woodworking, ceramics, floral items, jewelry, and specialty painting. The women will have "Attic Treasures" (a booth of older items), in addition to their booths including Christmas crafts, needlework, hand-stenciled items, jellies, jams and baked goods. A special feature this year will be a display and sale of Guatemalan weavings, sponsored by Women for Guatemala of Wyoming Valley.

The kitchen will be open all day, offering home-made soups, sandwiches and pies. There will be free parking and no admission charge. The public is invited to this annual Back Mountain event.
