membrane is important because people tend to forget such historical events. "The big thing about Pearl Harbor is that it was the starting of WWII," for the U.S., said Walters.

Walters remembers when a torpedo hit his ship. "If we hadn't been tied up we would have capsized," he said. Men were firing back at the Japanese planes from the main deck. The U.S.S. Raleigh had plenty of ammunition on it because they were going to have a drill the next day.

"I could see men swimming to Fort Island and the ships burning," he said. Walters saw the famous U.S.S. Arizona explode about 100 yards away.

Jack Good, a member of Post 672, believes it is very important to pay homage to those present at Pearl Harbor. "The breakfast is to remember what our guys did to preserve freedom," he said.

Bob Johnston of Dallas enlisted in the Air Force just a couple of months after the attack. "It's part of history and I happened to be in it. An awful lot of people do not realize how big it was, how important it was and how extensive the damage was at Pearl Harbor," said Johnston.

Walters echoed Johnston's comment when he said, "I just hope people respect the country and remember the history."

Regular Legion members, Auxiliary members and members of the newly-formed Sons of the American Legion are invited to this $5 breakfast. Tickets are now on sale at the Legion Post home at 675-6542 and from the following Legionaires: Jack Good, 675-3075; Tom Reese, 675-5929; Ed Buckley, 675-1877; Fred Templin, 675-2544; Bob Johnston, 675-2638; Leonard Groboski, 675-3346. ## BUSINESS TECHNOLOGY PROGRAM

This program is designed to present the student with the entry level skills necessary to work in an office setting as an administrative assistant, an executive secretary, a secretary/receptionist, and in many other multi-skilled office positions. The Business technology student will be trained in specific skills related to employment in the modern computerized office environment. Classroom instruction includes data entry, word processing, spreadsheets, bookkeeping, business English and math, basic accounting and payroll procedures, office procedures office simulations, management and supervision, communication skills, basic CPR/First Aid and career development. Also included is instruction and practical experience on various types of computer software programs including the Windows environment.

This program is comprised of three modules of six weeks (evening modules are thirteen weeks) including classroom theory and practical experience followed by a fourth module of externship in a business environment. In addition, each student must successfully complete an office simulation course and the Career Development course prior to the start of the Externship. Upon successful completion of this program, graduates will be qualified to work in a variety of business offices performing computer, clerical and administrative duties for executives or administrative personnel. In some office environments, the graduate may also serve as the office manager. The need for well-trained multi-skilled professional office employees is expected to grow throughout the year 2005. Details regarding certification may be obtained from the school director. REQUIREMENTS: (730 HOURS)
