Book Club helps stock Children's Wing shelves

The Book Club of the Back Mountain Memorial Library held its February meeting on Monday, the 16th at the Beaumont Inn for lunch. Mary Lou Swingle gave the secretary's report and Elin Northrup reported the treasure's balance was $1,238.91 with 143 members joining for 1998.

The list of recent additions to the book club shelf was announced by Mary Panaway. The contingency fund showed a balance of $63.40. A new typed book club information hand out was discussed and this will be available for all new members joining the book club.

The members expressed a desire to collect funds and purchase a book or series of books for the new children's wing. Members were saddened to learn that June McCloskey and Blanche Thompson, long-standing, members of the club have been home bound due to illness.

Announcement was made of members Elda Oleson and husband, Stephen, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Valentine's Day.

A delightful discussion was held on many subjects of interests to the members. The March meeting will be on Mon., March 16 at the library.

Too Often" by Dorothy Simpson is an Inspector Luke Thanet novel. Just a week away from his only daughter's wedding the inspector gets a phone call that saves him from writing his speech for the reception, but presents him with an even more challenging problem.

"Eyes" by Joseph Glass is the story of Susan Shader, a 10-year-old girl, tragically orphaned who learned she was psychic. The tragic deaths of John Lennon, Martin Luther King, Jr., the Tate-LaBianca killings and the murderous rampage of Richard Speck, all revealed themselves to the frightened girl.

"The Only Good Lawyer" by Jeremiah Healy begins when an attorney friend of Boston P.I. calls in a favor, looking into the case of Alan Spaeth. Spaeth is one sorry piece of work, a divorce squeeze, a racist, a misogynist, and a cold-blooded killer. John Cuddy becomes convinced of Spaeth's innocence.

"Good Cop, Bad Cop" by Barbara D'Amato is a brilliant novel of torn families and buried secrets which erupts into a long-buried political scandal. Nick is a tough top cop, but has a dangerous enemy on the force; his brother Aldo. Aldo is eaten up by jealousy and resentment of Nick's success.

"Quality Prospects read a Quality Newspaper"

After 15 years installing floors, Jesse Gydosh and his wife Jacci decided it was time to own their own store. They opened Northeast Floor and Wall at 312 Wilkes-Barre Twp. Boulevard, Route 309, Wilkes-Barre, PA and haven't slowed down since.

Northeast Floor and Wall carries a full line of high-quality flooring, from carpet to tile to wood and vinyl, including the newest laminates. But there's more - wallpaper and a complete interior decorating center, with the expert services of a decorator always available, all in a 10,000 square foot showroom.

Northeast Floor & Wall

Whether you're decorating a small bathroom or a new office building, Northeast Floor and Wall can help you get the look and quality you need.

Of course, having a new store and offering quality sales and service is one thing, getting the word around is quite another. When the Gydoshes wanted to reach the Back Mountain, they turned to The Dallas Post to get their message to the region's best prospects.

"We knew there were plenty of potential customers in the Back Mountain, and we reach them with our advertising in the Post," Jacci Gydosh said. If you're looking to redo the interior of your home or office, you might want to look up Northeast Floor and Wall. If you want to reach the region's best readers, call The Dallas Post at 675-5211, and we'll show you how to talk to them like no one else can.
