John M. Levitski to chair environmental awards dinner

John M. Levitski, community development director of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company will be dinner chair for this year's "An Evening for Northeast Pennsylvania's Environment." The Eight Annual Environmental Partnership Awards and Dinner. In presenting the awards and dinner, the NEPA Environmental Partners (Wilkes University, Pennsylvania Environmental Council's Northeast Office, EDCNP, the World Future Society and the Procter and Gamble Paper Products Company) join together to recognize outstanding accomplishments and partnering in protecting and conserving the environment of Northeastern, PA.

Mr. Levitski expressed the following sentiments for the awards dinner and the work of the Pennsylvania Environmental Council... "In today's global economy, partnerships at all levels and with a variety of communities and stakeholders have become increasingly important. The ability of any project of initiative to operate productively depends on building and maintaining partnerships with those individuals, groups or businesses that can impact its ultimate success or failure. Critical to the decision making process is a sensitivity and commitment to the overall effect on the environment. I applaud the work of the NEPA Environmental Partners in honoring those individuals and groups that exemplify this idea and I urge my fellow business associates to support the work of the Northeast Office of the Pennsylvania Environmental Council and the upcoming Eighth Annual Environmental Partnership Awards and Dinner."

To receive nomination materials for the awards, please contact with the NE PEC office at 717-408-4997 (or 831-4997) or Len Carlin at EDCNP at 717-655-5581.

Nominations must be post-marked no later than July 17. Winners will be announced Aug. 7. Awards will be presented during the awards dinner this fall.
