

Sem students named AP scholars

Thirty five students at Wyoming Seminary have been named as Advanced Placement Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement (AP) Examinations.

Approximately 23 percent of graduating seniors in the United States have taken one or more AP exams; of the 635,000 students who took the May 1998 exams, only 13 percent nationwide were recognized as Advanced Placement Scholars.

Students take AP exams after completing challenging college-level courses at their high schools. The examinations are graded on a 5-point scale (5 being the highest); most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit for grades of 3 or higher.

The College Board recognizes three levels of achievement — The AP Scholar with Distinction, the AP Scholar with Honor, and the AP Scholar.

Tim Reddy of Shavertown and Patrick Rosenthal, Shavertown, Duke University were named as AP Scholars with Distinction, earning a grade of three or above on five or more AP exams, with an average grade of at least 3.5

Michael Messersmith of Dallas was named as AP Scholar with Honors, earning a grade of 3 or above on four or more exams, with an average grade of at least 3.25.

Four current students from the Back Mountain were named as AP Scholars, completing three or more AP exams with grades of three or higher. They are Melissa Howell of Dallas, Timothy O'Donnell of Shavertown; Peter Casterline, Dallas, United States Military Academy; and Jennifer Stolarick, Trucksville, The Pennsylvania State University.
