Wyoming Valley Airport celebrates 70 years

Wyoming Valley Airport at Forty Fort will be celebrating its 70th Anniversary this weekend.

The Airport Day '99 theme is "History Is Alive." As a gift to the people of Wyoming Valley, the airport association is planning a spectacular day of festivities from 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Pilots based at Wyoming Valley Airport will be flying their airplanes starting at 11 a.m. (weather permitting) in tribute to the airport's aviation history. The celebration may bring many visiting pilots to the field providing for an armada of airplanes arriving throughout the day.

A commemorative Flag Ceremony at 5 p.m. will be offered in tribute to the many aviators from Wyoming Valley who served our nation's needs in the military services.

A gigantic arts, crafts and collectibles show will occupy the tarmac and main hangar areas. Static airplane display, radio controlled airplane flying and much more including food, refreshments and music. Admission is free. Plenty of free off street parking in nearby designated areas.

For more information call Airport Day '99 hotline at 331-4665.
