

DMS selects student council officers

Recently the Dallas Middle School Student Council held election of officers for the 1999-2000 school year. The following officers will serve their classmates and school: Jeff Pace, president; Marty Musto, vice-president; Kimberly Toussaint, recording secretary; Doug Zaruta, corresponding secretary and Matt Fritz, treasurer. The student council plans many activities which include school dances, theme days and fundraising events for numerous community organizations. Each year the group also serves as guides for major school functions and attends the Pennsylvania Student Council District IX Conference.

MOVERS AND SHAKERS

Terrance M. Hora has been named director of Satellite Communications (SATCOM) Systems at Tobyhanna Army Depot. As SATCOM program manager, he oversees a 300-person operation of engineering, staging and maintenance divisions.

Hora's primary mission is to provide engineering, systems integration, field, maintenance and logistical support for Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps tactical and strategic satellite networks, systems and equipment. The directorate serves as the Center of Technical Excellence for the Defense Satellite Communication Systems

Previously, Hora was an electronics engineer in the Directorate of Business Management, assisting in development, management and execution of the depot's strategic business planning and marketing programs. Most recently, he was assigned as transition manager for the BRAC '95 mandated transition of the tactical missile workload from Letterkenny Army Depot.

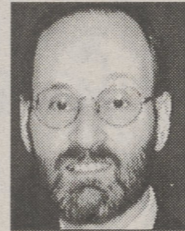

He began his depot career in December 1983 as an electronics engineer, supporting Tactical and Strategic Satellite Communications Systems. He later held a branch chief's position in the automated systems division. He has earned recognition and numerous commendations, including the Achievement Medal for Civilian Service in 1998 and the Commander's Award for Civilian Service in 1996.

Hora is a 1976 graduate of Wyoming Seminary, Kingston. He earned a bachelor of science degree in engineering from Wilkes University in 1982 and is presently a candidate for a master's degree of business administration in marketing management from Wilkes University.

He and his wife, Michele Hora, reside in Dallas. They have two children Ryan Michael Hora, 19; and Mandy Lynn Hora, 18.

Michael Mandel, M.D., director of sleep disorders center and co-director of the medical/surgical critical care unit at the Penn State Geisinger Wyoming Valley Medical Center, has been named the medical center's director of the department of internal medicine. He is also an associate in pulmonary medicine.

A graduate of Columbia University, Dr. Mandel earned his medical degree from the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1983. A Fellow of the American College of Physicians and the American College of Chest Physicians, he is also a member of the American and Pennsylvania Thoracic Societies. Dr. Mandel is Board Certified in four different specialties: pulmonary medicine, critical care medicine, internal medicine and sleep medicine.

Dr. Mandel is actively involved in developing programs for the care of patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. He has presented results of his studies at international chest society meetings and in numerous publications.

He resides in Dallas.

Dale Morris of Trucksville has joined Borton-Lawson Engineering, Inc. as a mechanical engineer.

Morris has a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering from Wilkes University. He brings more than five years experience in mechanical engineering to Borton-Lawson Engineering, Inc.
