

Civil War Round Table to meet

The monthly meeting of the Wyoming Valley Civil War Round Table is set for Thursday, January 20, at the American Legion building on Route 415, Dallas. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. All are welcome.

Edmund Duffy will present "Touring the Eastern Civil War Battlefields" with photographic annotations. Mr. Duffy is a student of the history of the Civil War and defines it more than a hobby. In his pursuit of information, he has traveled throughout Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania touring battlefields and searching cemeteries and records to find the final resting places of Civil War soldiers.

Refreshments will be served and a book raffle will be held. For more information please call 675-0606.

MOVERS & SHAKERS

Jane A. Kanyock, of Hazleton, has been named director of institutional advancement at Penn State Wilkes-Barre, announced Dr. Mary Hines, campus executive officer. Kanyock will direct the campus annual fund, endowments, capital campaign, planned giving, alumni relations, marketing and public relations.

Kanyock brings a wealth of experience in fund raising and public relations to Penn State. Previously, she was director of communications at the National Institute for Environmental Renewal where she headed up the marketing and communications responsibilities for the company. She also served as vice president of development for the Greater Hazleton Health Alliance, following the formation of the alliance of Hazleton St. Joseph's Medical Center and Hazleton General Hospital (where she served as vice president of development). In addition, she was dean of admissions and development for MMI Preparatory School in Freeland, where she successfully conducted a $1 million capital campaign that exceeded its established goal. Kanyock holds a master of science degree in business administration from Wilkes University. She has been an active member of the Kiwanis Club and United Way of Hazleton, Rotary Club of Scranton, Hazleton YW/YMCA, Visiting Nurses Association and Leadership Hazleton. She is a member of CAN-DO Marketing Committee and the National Society of Fundraising Executives.

Dr. Anthony Liuzzo, associate professor, Business Administration at Wilkes, recently had his paper "Measuring the Value of an Animal Life: Economic and Legal Perspectives," published in the Fall 1999 Pennsylvania Economic Review.

In the paper's abstract, Liuzzo states that both federal and state courts have historically demonstrated confusion and inconsistency in awarding damages in lawsuits which allege economic losses resulting from damage to animals. The injustice that follows is in large part the result of a lack of a clear economic conceptualization of how and to what extent animals are distinct from other forms of personal property.

Liuzzo received a B.S. in Marketing from Fordham University, a J.D. from St. John's University, and an M.B.A., a master's degree in Philosophy and a Ph.D. from New York University. He resides in Dallas.

John W. Lloyd, Vice President of Operations, Energy Converters, Inc. (ENCON), Dallas, has been elected to the Central Division Board of Governors of the Pennsylvania Economy League.

The Board of Governors establishes policies, objectives and priorities for PEL's research program in 33 counties in central and eastern Pennsylvania and aids in identifying and evaluating problems confronting government throughout this area. The Board also oversees the staffing, operation and financing of the Central Division office.

Mary Jo Grimes has been appointed Director of Community Relations for Hallmark Senior Communities at Mountainside Manor, Dallas.

Ms. Grimes comes to Hallmark Senior Communities with experience in personal care, assisted living, and skilled nursing.

Her responsibilities include community programs for the elderly and meeting the needs of new and prospective residents with emphasis on health issues while maintaining independence.

Ms. Grimes resides in Kingston with her husband Duke.
