Your grandmother said it was crass to talk about Money . . . Money . . . Money

That was then, this is now, and all we hear about is Money . . . Money . . . Money

Our readers are no different, except in this respect:

They live in the communities with the highest incomes and most assets in all of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Wouldn't you like to talk to them?

Well, you can, in our 2nd annual Per$onal Finance tabloid size special section, to be published March 8.

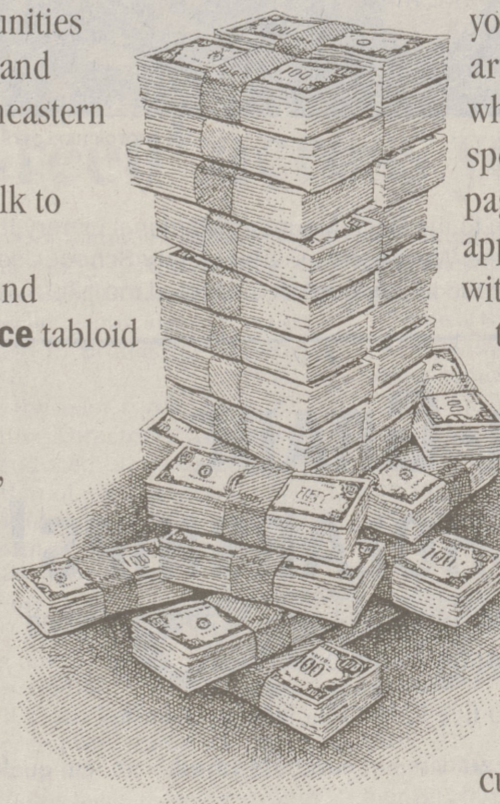

You know our readers, because some of them are already your customers. But many of them aren't, or they have new money to invest, and are open to new ideas.

Sure, they watch CNBC and read the dailies, but not the same way they read their community newspaper:

And here's the best part - if you advertise, you can also give them ideas in an article written by . . . you! Advertisers who take a 1/2 page or larger ad - at special rates - can submit up to a 1/2 page size article (with photo) that will appear in the section. And we'll work with you to see that you're not saying the same thing as a competitor.

It is our hope that all editorial content will be supplied by advertisers, with articles about IRA's, taxes, saving for college, bonds, mortgages, insurance, annuities and the whole range of financial instruments. So, reach your best potential customers, just the way you want, just where they have the most time to absorb your message . . . at home.
