White Sox win softball title

The White Sox, who finished the regular season as Major League Softball champs with a record of 11-1, also won the Major League Softball Playoff Championship by a score of 4-2 over the Red Sox on Saturday. The White Sox jumped on top in the bottom of the first inning on a sacrifice bunt by Maggie Guntli, scoring Jessica English. The White Sox scored two more in the second and almost broke the game wide open. With the bases loaded and one out Sheree Horvath ripped a line drive that Red Sox shortstop Ali Kowalchak snared with a leap and turned into a double play. The Red Sox came back with two runs on three hits in the fourth inning with the big hit being a double play by Sara Swepton. Clinging to a 3-2 lead the White Sox scored an insurance run in the bottom of the fifth with Maggie Guntli again bunting in Sheree Horvath.

The Red Sox made one more attempt in the top of the sixth but a running catch by center fielder Amanda Musto and a good play by third baseman Becca Banks retired the first two Red Sox. Jessica Jones got a two out hit for the Red Sox but winning pitcher Sheree Horvath struck out the last batter for the championship.

Both pitchers were outstanding. Red Sox pitcher Sara Swepton allowed only four hits and struck out 10, while White Sox pitcher Sheree Horvath also allowed only four hits while striking out 12 and walking only one.
