Students prevail on the donkeyball court

Lake-Lehman High School faculty and students met for the annual donkey basketball game last week in the high school gym. The students won for the first time in recent memory when Tim Shaw made a basket in sudden death overtime to seal a 38-36 victory.

ski tried to get around Matt Dunn; Robert Roberts, superintendent of schools, found his mount more contrary than a school director; Katie Supey kept a close eye on the action and a tight grip on a lollipop; Joe DeCesaris found getting on the donkey while holding the ball quite a challenge.

Fire department web addresses
