

Community Photo Album

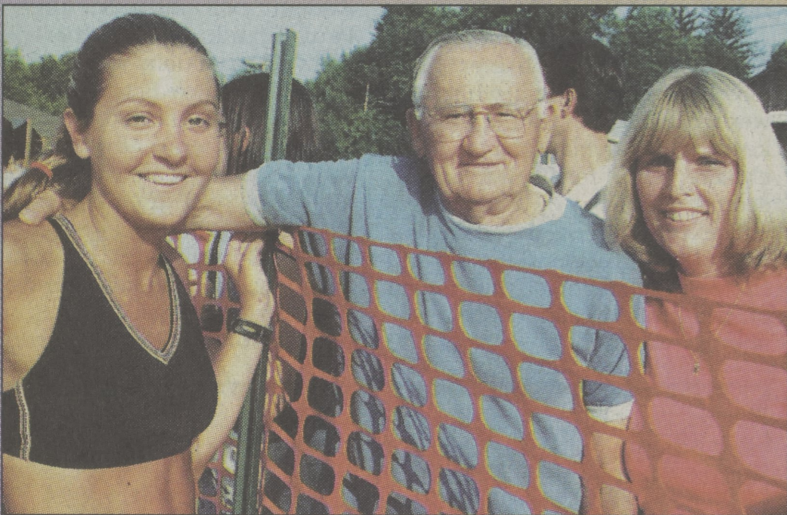

Keeping the pace

Local athletes joined elite racers from around the nation Sunday in the 20th annual Wilkes-Barre Triathlon. The race began as the Wyoming Valley/Back Mountain Triathlon and throughout its history has been one of the most important — and enjoyable — stops on the circuit. This year's surprise overall winner was 20-year-old Greg Remaly of Bloomsburg.

PHOTOS BY JIM PHILLIPS

Bill Sprau explained the finer points of triathlon setup to his son, Owen.

Nadalie Temperine posed with her grandfather, Louis, and mother, Lisa, before the race.

Liz Byron stretched before jumping into Harveys Lake.

Wayne Devine, Jim Harris and Len Romanowski have been long-time competitors. Harris was race director for several years.

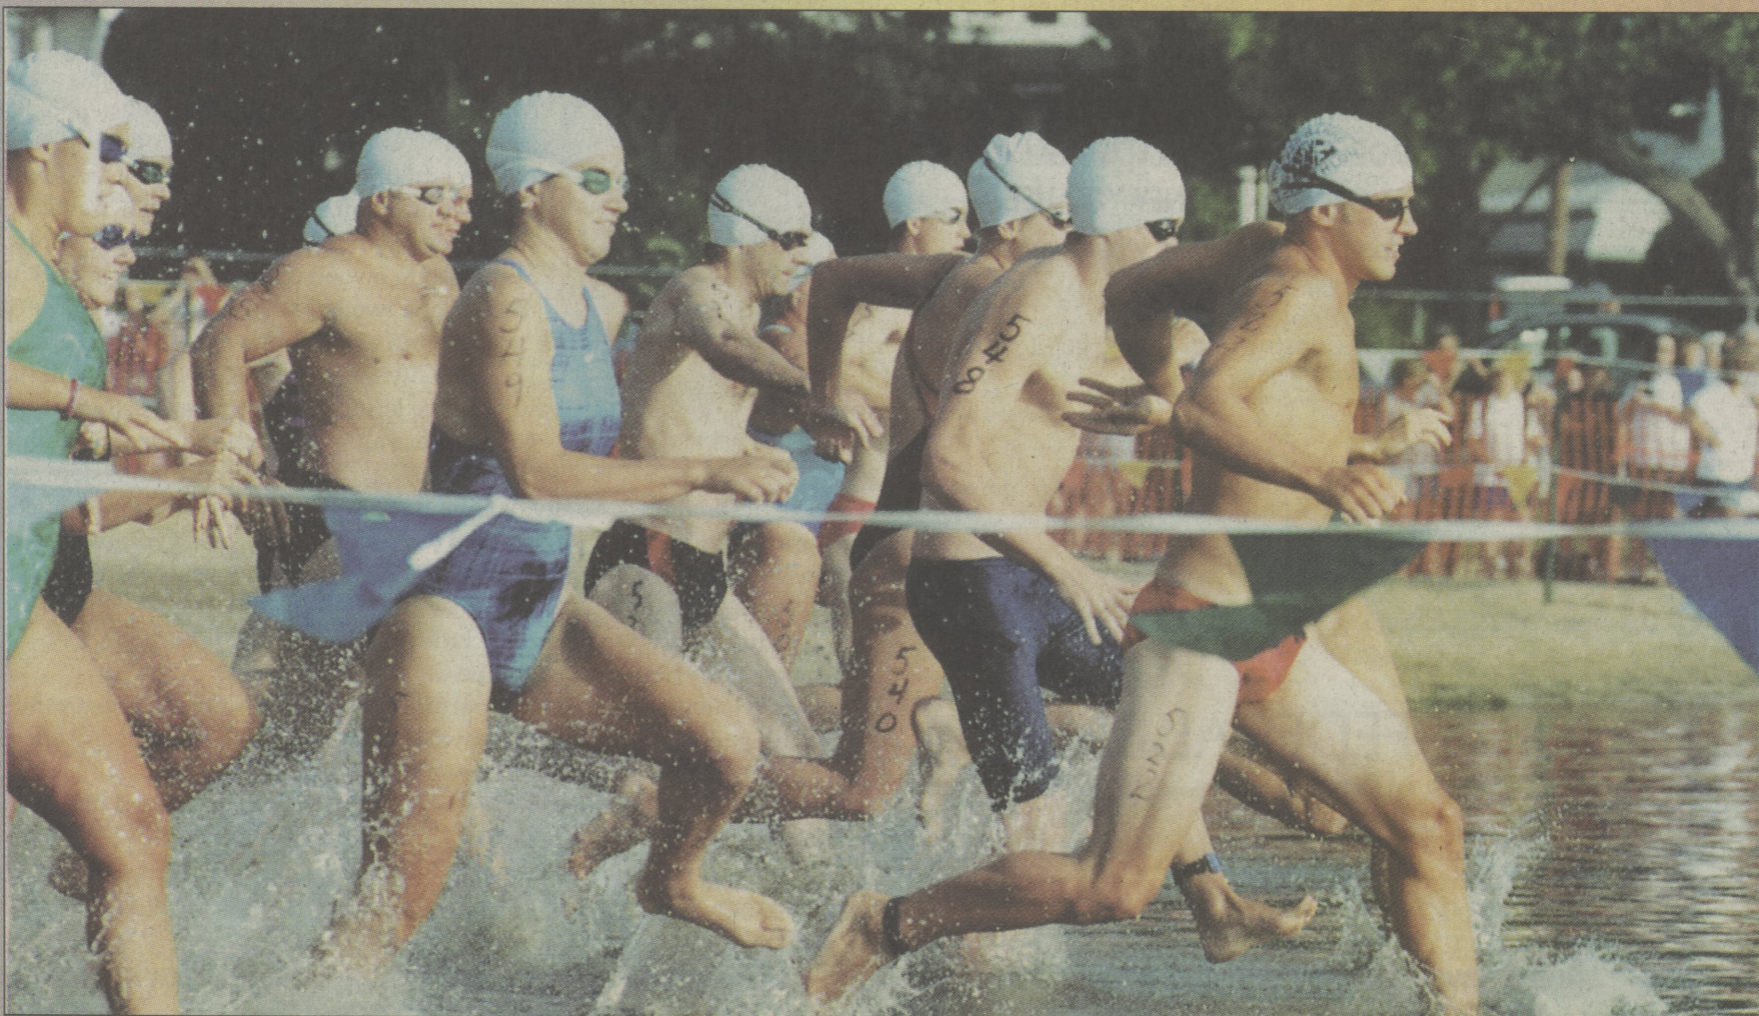

Nadalie Temperine got going in the bicycle segment.

Mike Scavone, John Anglovich and Joe Litchman looking manly before the race.

Cara Devine and Robert Baur of Dallas prepared their bikes.

And they're off! The first wave of competitors entered the water.