Life, won the honor of kissing Frank the Pig. Wagner's jar received $622 in donations.

"When I was approached with the organization's idea, I couldn't resist," Wagner said. "It's for a good cause."

The lucky pig, Frank, who puckered up for the event is owned by Marge Bart of Dallas. Bart said the event was Frank's first time off the farm in eight years. She adopted Frank, an abused pig, from the S.P.C.A. She was proud she and Frank could do something for Halloran.

"I felt sorry for the young man who was injured," she said.

After Wagner and Frank gave each other a big smooch, Wagner joked, "I've kissed worse."

Contributions to help the Halloran family may be sent to: Ed Halloran Accident Fund, PNC Bank, 325 Memorial Highway, Dallas, Pa. 18612.

ORGANIZATIONS OPPOSE UGI RATE HIKE

A number of Back Mountain organizations, both governmental and private, have gone on record as being strongly opposed to proposed rate increases by UGI Corporation. Among the first to voice opposition were Back Mountain Protective Association and Lehman Township Taxpayers Association. James Lenahan Brown is the solicitor for the Back Mountain Protective Association. The president for Lehman Taxpayers Association is Joseph Reina.

Lehman Taxpayers Association will patrol the streets of Oak Hill again this year during the Halloween season. In addition to taxpayers association members, private detectives have been hired.

pipes will be installed and installation of a catch basin should solve the problem.

Nice also asked the supervisors to address speeding on Briar Crest Road.

"I can clock cars going 50 miles per hour on that road," Nice said. He asked if police could monitor the area for speeders.

"A lot of the time the people we catch are the residents," said Raymond Iwanowski, supervisor.

"It's a speedway until you get to the township line, and then it turns into a cow path," Nice said. The speeding problem has escalated since the paving of the road.

Sutton suggested increasing police patrols in that area and posting additional speed limit signs.

- The first 1.4 mile of Jackson

Road, from Huntsville Nursery to the State Correctional Institute, Dallas, will be closed during the day on October 18 and 19 for paving.

Lehman Township residents will receive confirmation of their 911 addresses in the mail from Luzerne County within two weeks. There is a phone number on the information for residents to call with concerns or correction regarding the 911 system, said Alvin Cragle, treasurer.

Iwanowski resigned from the township's planning commission due to personal reasons. Douglas Ide was appointed to the vacant seat.

A flag pole will be donated to the Lehman Township Municipal Building by Alvin and Phyllis Cragle. The Cragles are making the donation in memory of Kenneth Swan, who served Lehman Township as a supervisor over the span of three decades.
