Also bolstering Lehman were its two aggressive freshmen, Matt Dragon and Jeremy Schutz. Both lost in the quarter-finals and worked their way back to the third-place finals. Dragon defeated Line Mountain's Shannon Erdman, who beat the Black Knight in the quarters, 4-3 at 130 pounds. Schutz pinned Council Rock's Chris Chambers in 1:47 at 135 pounds. Always-reliable Black Knight heavyweight Matt Carey also placed third, besting Coughlin's Ryan Kittrick 5-0.

While clutching the Times Leader trophy awarded to his team, Lipski was quick to point out this is just the start of a long season.

"We shoot for February and March," said Lipski, referring to the postseason. "We'll say 'thank you' and move on. Hopefully we can take this trophy and run with it."

CANCER BASICS
Q: Where can I find local cancer information on the Internet?
A: The Northeast Regional Cancer Institute's redesigned website, www.nrci.org, includes local and national resources for individuals coping with cancer, their families and friends, as well as health care professionals and the general public. The site also contains information about specific cancers from the National Cancer Institute; education and support programs available throughout Northeast PA; services available for cancer survivors and caregivers; facts and guidelines about cancer screenings; locally-based cancer research; NRCI news and publications; links to NRCI's partner hospitals; and a calendar of cancer-related events offered in Northeast PA.
