made a personal commitment to avoid the pressures to begin using drugs. The entire class stood to make that pledge during the ceremony. In addition, four students — Koryn Henry, Noelle Miller, Abby Mulhern, and Ryan Williams — read their winning speeches and were presented with a stuffed lion named Darren.

"It's not the end. It's not the beginning. We're somewhere in the middle," Officer Ziegler told the parents and guests in the audience. "Drug education never stops."

The students and guests were treated to a reception after the ceremony complete with a specially decorated cake provided by the Wycallis PTO.
