The Dallas Middle School held Talent Show 2002 on March 7. Almost 50 students displayed their best talents for the entire student body at the school.

Students sang, played musical instruments, acted and performed karate routines to music at the talent show.

Talent Show 2002 was directed by faculty members Norine Amesbury, Robin Moore and Jaime Slocum.

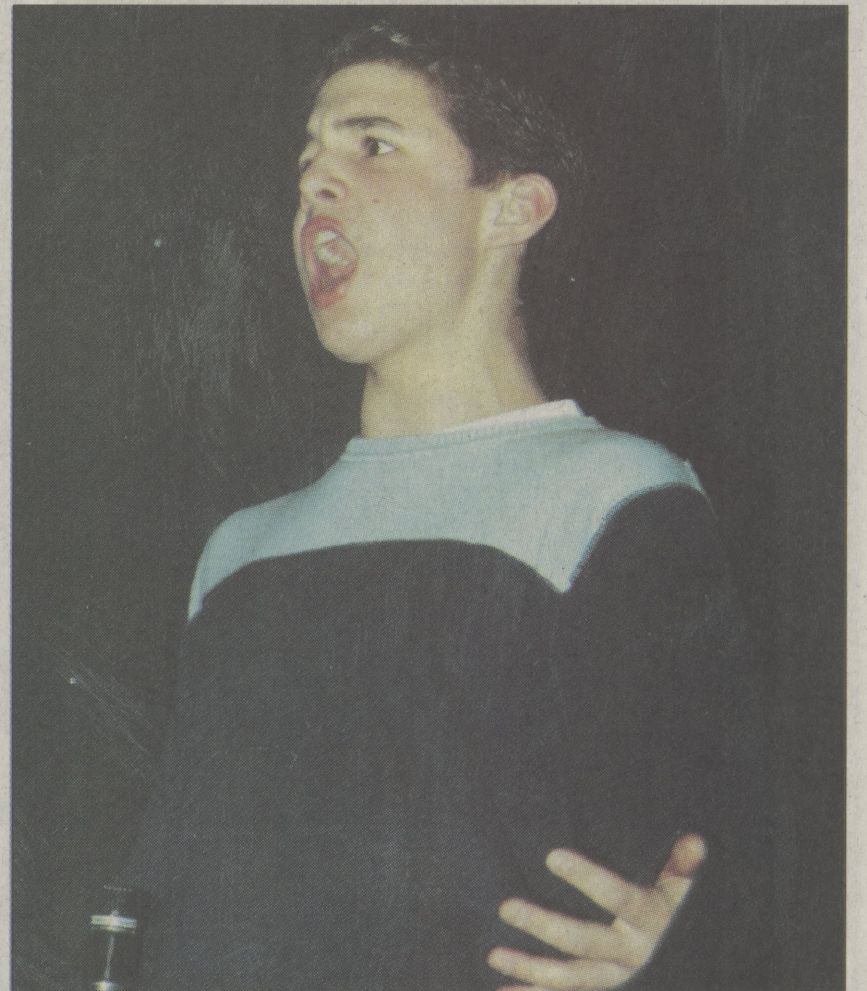

Mindy Yedesko was a star under the lights with her tap performance to the song "Taps Miller."

Josh Reese (singing) and Kevin Roman (rear) play the song "Freedom." Eric Spurlin is also a member of the band.

Kelsey Blaskiewicz performs an Irish step dance to the song "Paddy McCarthy."

Above, Matt Buckman teamed with Shannon Dingle to perform "Me," from the musical "Beauty and the Beast." At left, Brittany Prater does her best impression of Jerry Lee Lewis in her rendition of "Great Balls of Fire."

Drew Slocum is Herbert from the original on-stage performance of "The Three Happening Pigs and the Lame Wolf."

Erin Gittens plays "Hanging by a Moment" on the flute.
