Patel, Budin will attend Governor's Schools

Two Wyoming Seminary juniors from the Back Mountain will be attending the Governor's Schools of Excellence this summer. Mansee Patel of Shavertown and Leah Budin of Trucksville were named to the statewide program based on their academic achievement, their leadership potential and their interest in the program's specific issues.

The five-week residential summer programs for high-school students from throughout the Commonwealth take place on college and university campuses. The schools provide hands-on experiences for students in the agricultural sciences, the arts, health care, international studies, the sciences and teaching. Room and board, tuition, classroom materials and activities fees are covered by full scholarships.

Mansee Patel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Satish Patel, will attend the Governor's School for Information Technology, hosted jointly by Drexel University and the Pennsylvania State University. There she will study networks and telecommunications, systems analysis and design, software development, and electronic commerce.

Leah Budin, daughter of Dr. Robert Budin and Dr. Diane Lower, will attend the Governor's School for the Arts at Mercyhurst College. There she will study the visual arts.
