College Misericordia to apply for PA historical marker

College Misericordia President Michael A. MacDowell met recently with Dallas Borough officials and Pennsylvania Representative George Hasay (R-117) to discuss placement of historical markers in the Borough. The commemorative markers, part of a popular state program, would be installed on the campus and in Dallas to note College Misericordia's 78-year history and the rich history of Dallas Borough.

Trucksville woman charged with theft, providing false identification

WILKES-BARRE — Kiersten White, 22, of Trucksville, was taken into custody by Wilkes-Barre Township police August 7 at the Interfaith Apartment Complex. Wilkes-Barre on charges stemming from a July 30 attempted theft at Wal-Mart in Wilkes-Barre Township.

According to police: White faces charges of false identification to law enforcement authorities, unsworn falsification to authorities, retail theft and harassment after providing identification, claiming to be Suzanne Wasilius of Dallas, to police after the July 30 incident.

White was also wanted on an outstanding capias for failure to appear before the court on July 3.

Police said officers from Wilkes-Barre Township and the Wilkes-Barre City Police Department's SID Unit conducted a joint investigation in locating White at the apartment complex.

Police said White was apprehended after a short foot pursuit, at which time, she resisted arrest, scratching and kicking officers. She was taken to Luzerne County Correctional Facility and logged on the capias.

White appeared before District Justice Michael Dotzel for arraignment on the township charges, and bail was set a $10,000. She is currently lodged at the correctional facility.

Police said additional charges of resisting arrest, possession of heroin and possession of drug paraphernalia will be added.

Editor's Note: A report in the August 8, 2002 issue of The Dallas Post contained a report that Suzanne Wasilius had been arrested for attempting to steal merchandise at the Wilkes-Barre Wal-Mart. Subsequent to that date, it was learned that Kiersten White was charged with falsely claiming to be Wasilius.

stabilize erosion and prevent sediment from flowing and collecting downstream, said Jack Hanish.

While a $100,000 grant for a storm water drainpipe was rejected, Hanish is optimistic about the availability of other funds and will continue to apply for Growing Greener and federal grants after further analysis of the grant rejection. Hanish said the lake's biggest problem is storm water drainage into the lake.

Two Lake-Lehman High School students, unaware they needed insurance and permits from the township for the project, held an auto show at the Luzerne County Fairgrounds on Route 118 as part of their senior project. Township officials scrambled to issue temporary permits and Dallas Fall Fair, Inc. provided insurance for the event. A letter was sent to the Lake-Lehman School District superintendent outlining procedures for temporary permits and off campus activities.

"The kids try to do good things for the community as part of (their senior projects). The last thing we wanted to do was shut them down," said Sutton. "This is all supposed to be part of the learning curve for them anyway."

"I know one student had a golf tournament to buy (heart) defibrillators," continued Sutton, praising the students for their contributions to the community. "We have two kids that are building picnic tables for the Back Mountain recreation park and are trying to find people to fund them."

Last month, residents Dean Cassaday and Fred Valentine of Fern Ridge Road, requested the paving of the road by the township. The request has been denied as the proposed paving project is only 10 feet wide and does not comply with state standards for liquid fuel transport.

"I've checked with the state and paving must be a minimum of 16 feet wide and it is not feasible on that road," said Roadmaster and Supervisor Doug Ide.

A continuation of a resident's complaint and a subsequent police complaint was issued to Marcy S. Evans of Cease Terrace for operation of an auto repair business in a residential zone. Evans claims he is not operating a business but is performing work for family members. The zoning officer requested a written report from Evans on July 1 but no response has been received yet.

Zoning officer Charles Bartlett and Barbara Sims, administrator/coordinator of the Lehman Township Planning Commission, are continuing to collect information to be used in updating the Lehman Township zoning district map.

The supervisors adopted the policy and procedures manual of the police department as requested by Chief Howard Kocher.

Manager threatened him, councilman claims

DALLAS BOROUGH — Councilman Dennis Garvey has filed a private criminal complaint against Borough Manager Joseph Moskovitz, claiming the manager harassed and threatened him.

The complaint stems from a Jan. 2 incident in which Garvey claims Moskovitz called him at work.

Garvey claims Moskovitz told Garvey he would do everything in his power to "get rid of him."

He also threatened to "hold (Garvey) by (his) ankles out the second floor window and shake you until your good eye pops out," according to the complaint that was filed July 30 with District Justice James Tupper.

Reached at the borough building Tuesday, Moskovitz declined comment.

Council President John Oliver said he heard about the incident that prompted the complaint, but had no first-hand knowledge of what happened.

"I'd like to see this play out in magistrate court, on the face of it, it's frivolous," Oliver said.

In the complaint Garvey said two borough employees were with Moskovitz when he called Garvey.

Moskovitz faces summary complaints of harassment and harassment and threats of bodi-
