Fortunately, for both the Dallas and Lake-Lehman soccer teams, the playoffs are a given. Neither coach — Joe DePasquale of Lehman or Chris Scharff of Dallas — expected to have as tough a season as they've experienced, but both believe in the idea of a whole new season once the playoffs begin. Because of the layout of the league this year, both Dallas and Lehman make the playoffs regardless of their records.

In Division I, which includes the Dallas and Lehman squads, two AA teams must make the playoffs. At the beginning of the year, both coaches opted to play in Division I, which would force them to meet the toughest opponents during the regular season. Because they were the only AA teams to choose the division, they were automatically granted a playoff berth.

Sem puts end to Black Knights' unbeaten streak

KINGSTON — With Lindsay Foltz standing a couple of feet from goal, and with seconds left in overtime, Sam Lloyd knew exactly what to expect from her Wyoming Seminary teammate.

"I knew she was going to pass. She is such an unselfish player," Lloyd said of Foltz. "I just had to be there to put it in."

After getting a perfect pass from Foltz, Lloyd did her part, scoring with just 11 seconds left in sudden-victory overtime, lifting Wyoming Seminary to a 1-0 victory over Lake-Lehman in Wyoming Valley Conference field hockey on Monday.

Lehman (11-1 overall, 7-1 Class 2A) had entered the game as the only undefeated team in the league. Now Crestwood (11-1, 8-0) is in first in the 2A ranks, with Lehman, Wyoming Seminary (12-1, 8-1) and Lackawanna Trail (10-2, 7-1) right behind.

Lehman was at less than its best in a rematch of last year's District 2 and PIAA state 2A championship games. During pre-game warm-ups, senior center halfback Megan DeCesaris was hit in the head with a ball and had to be taken to the hospital for stitches. DeCesaris was back on the bench in time to cheer for her teammates in overtime, but her absence from the field during the entire game forced Lehman to juggle its lineup.

"I know our kids can play a better game," Lehman coach Jean Lipski said. "The kids were mentally knocked off their game when Megan got hurt, and then we had to start switching positions."

Even so, Lehman came within a whisker of pulling out a tie, and could have won the game. Tracey Hudak had a great game in goal for the Black Knights, making seven saves, all of them on quality shots. Lehman had only two shots on goal in the game, but one came from Ryan Hoover late in the first half and it hit the goalpost.

"She is a pivotal player for them,"

WRIGHT TWP. — Jon Barbose had a memorable game Saturday afternoon. The Dallas senior scored his first touchdown of the season and helped lead a Mountaineer defense that allowed just 18 total yards and created six turnovers.

His special teams play provided an emotional lift for his teammates just seconds into the game.

Barbose returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown as Dallas spoiled Crestwood's homecoming festivities with a 56-0 rout in a Wyoming Valley Conference Division 2 game. The Mountaineers improve to 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the division, while the Comets fall to 1-5 and 0-3.

"It was a great run. Jon got some blocks and he showed a lot of speed," said Dallas head coach Ted Jackson of the

With his team coming off a loss and a short week of practice — Dallas lost to Pittston on Monday afternoon — Barbose was hoping to give his team a spark early in the game.
