

MOVERS & SHAKERS

Dr. Edward Foote, Associate Professor of Pharmacy Practice in the Nesbitt School of Pharmacy at Wilkes University, was recently elected a Fellow of the American College of Clinical Pharmacy (ACCP). ACCP is the leading national professional organization for clinical pharmacy practice. Fellowship in the College recognizes the highest levels of excellence in the practice and science of Clinical Pharmacy.

Dr. Edward Foote

Peers within ACCP first nominate candidates for Fellowship. A portfolio describing clinical, service and research is reviewed by a panel within ACCP. Final designation is made by the Board of Regents of AACCP.

Dr. Foote received his B.S. and Doctor of Pharmacy from the University of the Sciences, Philadelphia. He completed post-graduate fellowship training in nephrology at the University of Minnesota. He has been a member of the Pharmacy Practice faculty at Wilkes since 2000.

Dr. Foote is a graduate of Lakeland High School. He is the son of Raymond and Ruth Foote, Jermyn. He resides in Trucksville with his wife Corinne and their three children.

Martin W. Slann, Ph.D., has been appointed director of academic affairs at Penn State Wilkes-Barre, announced Dr. Mary E. Hines, campus executive officer. Dr. Slann previously chaired the department of Political Science at Clemson University in South Carolina where he was a three time recipient of the Board of Trustees Award for Faculty Excellence. He earned his B.A. in History at the University of Miami, his M.A. in Political Science from the University of Connecticut, and his doctorate in the same at the University of Georgia.

An expert on terrorism, Dr. Slann has authored and co-authored numerous articles and books on that subject. Among his publications are the Encyclopedia of Terrorism (with Cindy Combs); Multi-Dimensional Terrorism, Violence and Terrorism, and Ideological and Political Dimensions of International Terrorism (all with Bernard Schechterman). His textbook supplement, "The September 11 Attack on America and Its Aftermath" will appear in the introductory section of all upcoming American Government and Political textbooks published by Houghton Mifflin. Dr. Slann has been called upon for his expertise on subjects including domestic and international terrorism, hostage situations, the Persian Gulf War, American foreign policy, Iraq, the Soviet Union, and the Middle East for newspaper, radio, and television interviews, lectures, and panel discussions.

As director of academic affairs, Dr. Slann will represent the interests of academic affairs and the faculty at Penn State Wilkes-Barre.

Sordoni Art Gallery will present selections from the Maslow Collection

The Sordoni Art Gallery will open the exhibition, "Collecting at Century's End: Selections from the Maslow Collection," on Sunday, October 27, running through Sunday December 15.

This exhibition is the third in a series of projects undertaken by the Sordoni Art Gallery featuring selected masterworks from The Maslow Collection, a private contemporary art collection based in Wilkes-Barre. The first of these, held in 1988, "American Art Since WWII," focused on well-established, post-war American artists, while the second, "Artists of the '80s," in 1989, concentrated on a younger and then emerging generation of artists. This third event continues this in-depth look at an important regional collection by highlighting the work of six artists that entered The Maslow Collection at the close of the last century. The exhibition will feature more than 15 works of art representing two divergent tendencies in painting of the late 1980s and 1990s — the figurative work of Jane Hammond, Robert Cumming, and John Beerman, and the nonrepresentational, or abstract, painting of Willy Heeks, Terry Winters, and Melissa Meyer.

The exhibition will be accompanied by an illustrated full-color catalogue, including short essays on each artist. "This project offers a rare opportunity to area residents to view and study a comprehensive cross-section of recent trends in contemporary American art," said Ronald R. Bernier, Director of the Sordoni Art Gallery.

In early 1982, Marilyn and Richard Maslow, of Dallas, began to research and study a range of contemporary American art. The Maslow Collection now holds more than 500 works in a variety of media by more than 170 artists.

"We at the Sordoni Art Gallery at Wilkes University are delighted to host this exhibition and are deeply indebted to Marilyn and Richard Maslow and the Maslow Family Foundation who have made this project possible through the generous loan of works of art and support for the catalogue," Bernier added.

The Sordoni Art Gallery is open to the public and is located at 150 South River Street in the Stark Learning Center on the Wilkes University campus. The Gallery is open daily from noon until 4:30 p.m. Admission is free. For more information, call 408-4325.

'Magpie' to entertain at Land Trust benefit

On Saturday evening, November 2, at 7 p.m., College Misericordia's McAuley-Walsh Auditorium will ring out with the sounds of the prolific folk duo Magpie. The next afternoon at 2 p.m., those same performers will captivate youngsters with a special free children's matinee at Tunkhannock's Dietrich Theater. Proceeds will benefit the North Branch Land Trust, preserving farmland and green space in Northeast Pennsylvania.

Preserving our future environment is a modern message from a pair of counterculture survivors. Greg Artzner picked up the guitar in the 1960s, inspired by the Civil Rights Movement. Terry Leonino began playing with Greg at Kent State University in 1973. Terry witnessed the infamous shootings — that experience captured in Magpie's emotionally charged composition, "Kent."

Concert-goers will be treated to much more than nostalgia. The Washington, D.C.-based singer-songwriters received that city's "WAMMIE Award" for Folk Duo of the Year 2001. Along with vocal harmonies and guitars, Magpie's musicianship is astounding on instruments as varied as mandolin, English concertina, and Native American flute.

Adult fans of Magpie's blend of traditional folk, country, blues, and contemporary will want to bring their families to the free children's matinee at the Dietrich. Terry Leonino earned three degrees in elementary education from Kent, and since 1983 Magpie has created magical children's performances across the country under the auspices of the Wolf Trap Institute for Early Learning Through the Arts.

Tickets for Saturday are $10 for adults, $5 for students and are available at the door and in advance through North Branch Land Trust at 696-5545. For the Sunday performance, seating is limited. Tickets are available at the door only on a first-come, first-served basis.

Kingston Twp. offers compost site

Kingston Township reminds residents that Open Burning Permits are required for all open fires and that Township Ordinance states that only wood, paper, tree branches, tree leaves and yard trimmings may be burned. The ordinance further states that no hazardous or other objectionable condition will be created by such burning.

The Township encourages residents to utilize other methods of disposal of these items, such as the Township compost area at the Center Street Public Works Facility. Residents may haul leaves, branches, and yard trimmings to this site instead of burning.

The compost site hours are: April through November 30 of each year: Monday-Friday, 7 a.m. to dark; Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m..

December 1 through March 30 of each year: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.; Wednesday, 7 a.m. to dark; Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Residents with questions about open burning or the compost site may call the Township Administrative Office at 696-3809, Monday-Friday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
