He didn't place at the TL invite last week and Lipski said the sophomore was in need of some "brain massaging." The coaching staff's confidence-building helped Schutz in the final, as he major decisioned three-time District 2 champion Adam Johnson of Lackawanna Trail 11-2.

"The coaches told me I was going to win," Schutz said. "I was aggressive and had nothing to lose and it worked out."

Things didn't look as if they'd work out for Schutz a minute into the bout, when Johnson was poised for a takedown, but Schutz somehow flipped Johnson over top of himself and got two points of his own. He went on to score five points in each of the first two periods.

"He shot in and I just used my instinct," said Schutz.

Other Black Knights wrestlers making it to the finals were Kelly Morgan (112), John Houssock (119), Andy Josuweit (130) and Willie Weber (171). Jon Schutz (125) and Matt Stuart (160) picked up fifth place finishes.
