Sport management roundtable at Misericordia

Area leaders in the field of sport management will gather at College Misericordia for the third annual Sport Management Roundtable on Thursday, February 27 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Over 100 area high school and college students attended the event last year, which is designed to explore the business of sport management and the career opportunities in that field.

Panelists will discuss the explosive growth of sport as a business and the state of sport in Pennsylvania. Panelists scheduled to appear include Rick Muntean, General Manager, Scranton/Wilkes-Barre Red Barons; Andy Long, executive director, First Union Arena; and Adam Zucker, sports anchor, WBRE-TV. Other invited guests include Jeff Barrett, president, WB/Scranton Penguins; Mike Duricko, Sport Lawyer/Agent; Amy Baldrige, director of Business Operations, WB/S Pioneers; Shawn Brennan, athletic director, Iona College; Bob Parkinson, assistant director, Keystone State Games; Louis Schwartz, executive director, American Sportscasters Association; Phil Feather, internship coordinator, Philadelphia Phillies.

This interactive and informative session begins with registration at 11 a.m., immediately followed by lunch at 11:30 a.m. Guests will then hear presentations from our area's leading sport management authorities. A lively question and answer session will follow.

College Misericordia offers the region's only baccalaureate degree in Sport Management. The course of study combines a student's love of sport with a career in business. Any high school junior, senior or current college student who may be interested in a career in sport management is welcome to attend. Registration is required.

Students or parents who need more information or would like to attend can call College Misericordia at 674-6264 or toll-free at 1-866-CM and Me.

Three seniors win DAR awards

The Wyoming Valley Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution announced the winners in the DAR Good Citizens Contest, which is sponsored annually by the National Society DAR.

Among the 15 high school seniors who represent their respective high schools are Jaime Verazin, Bishop O'Reilly; Carolyn Annabelle Thimot, Dallas; and Justin Boyer, Lake-Lehman.

The contest honors students who possess, to an outstanding degree, the qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Students complete a written examination and compete for six geographical division awards of $500 each and a state award of $250. The national winner receives $3,000 and an engraved silver bowl, second place earns a $1,000 scholarship, and third place receives a $750 scholarship.

An awards ceremony and reception will be held March 8 in the social rooms of the Wyoming Methodist Church, 376 Wyoming Ave., Wyoming. Betty Miller, chapter regent, will preside.

Guest speaker will be H. Merritt Hughes, a well-known local lay leader and businessman, whose subject will be responsible citizenship. The presentation of awards will be made by Sandra Johnson, past chairman of the state DAR Good Citizens Committee.

Chapter members assisting with the reception and awards ceremony include Carol King, secretary and Shirley Smith, treasurer.

Winners in the state and national contests will be announced at the annual meeting of the DAR to be held the week of July 4 at the DAR Headquarters, Constitution Hall, Washington, D.C.

Hilary Flack meets the President

As much as she enjoys life as a seventh grader at Wyoming Seminary Lower School, Hilary Flack of Dallas happily played hooky when the opportunity arose to see President Bush deliver a speech in Scranton.

After Hilary and her parents lucked into tickets to see the President, Hilary was fortunate to find herself seated very close to the podium at the University of Scranton's gymnasium. She says she was struck by the seriousness of the President's speech, which addressed the problem of high medical malpractice rates in Pennsylvania, as well as other issues in health care. Following the speech, Rep. Paul Kanjorski, who was seated nearby, escorted Hilary to the stage so that she could personally meet the president and get his autograph. Although Flack took in lots of Secret Service sightings, she did not take home lots of books that day. Nonetheless, she shared her experiences with classmates and teachers the following day at Wyoming Seminary Lower School.

Simpson named to Dickinson dean's list

Matthew David Simpson, a junior majoring in economics at Dickinson College in Carlisle, has been named to the dean's list for the fall 2002 semester. A graduate of Dallas High School, this Dickinson student is the son of Jack and Kathryn Simpson of Dallas.
