Weinstock chosen for leadership program

Jered Weinstock, sophomore at Dallas High School, has been selected to join other young leaders representing as many high schools from throughout central Pennsylvania at the Central Pennsylvania Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Seminar (HOBY) from May 15-18 at the Holiday Inn Harrisburg/Hershey in Grantville.

Jered is the son of Inez and Sidney Weinstock, Dallas.

For the past 45 years, HOBY Leadership seminars have brought together select groups of high school sophomores to interact with groups of distinguished leaders in business, government, and education to discuss present and future issues in an enthusiastic learning environment. This is Central Pennsylvania's 25th year of participation in HOBY.

Rowlands inducted into honor society

The King's College ACT 101 advisory board recently honored those whose academic achievement or service to the program merited special recognition.
