PENNDOT EXPLAINS SPRAYING POLICIES

The state's use of herbicides to control roadside vegetation growth has been an object of concern for environmental groups, sportsmen's clubs, gardeners, and homeowners. Each year the spraying program sparks protests from the citizenry, and each year the department of transportation repeats its claim that the spraying program is a necessary, safe and economical approach to maintaining road right-of-ways.

Mel Mosier, owner and operator of the Forty Fort Ice Cream Store, Memorial Highway, told the Dallas Post that he will probably be giving up the business. Mr. Mosier said plans have not been finalized for the lease of the building to the Mark II Restaurant, but could become effective Oct. 1.
