

Dallas

compared their experiences at Dallas and their future experiences to famous movies members of the class had probably seen. For instance, she related the movie "The Goonies" to how they will have to fight for what they believe in, no matter the cost, much as the characters in the movie have to.

Joseph Bednash, Salutatorian, thanked the teachers for everything they had done for their class throughout their years.

One of the most somber moments of the evening came when Jason Senese spoke about Casey Zelenski, and how proud Casey would have been of the class. High school principal Frank Galicki then presented Casey's parents with the diploma Casey would have earned along with his classmates. William Zelenski, Casey's father, thanked everyone for their support.

The class song, Semisonic's "Closing Time," was the focal point of class Treasurer Jacqueline Hardwick's closing speech.

"Treasure friends as if they are gold."

Whitney Adams
President, Class of 2004

She used the line, "Every new beginning comes from some other beginning's end," to illustrate moving from high school to something new.

No Dallas graduation would be complete without a beach ball, smoke bombs and Silly String. All were in full view as the graduates threw their caps in the air to celebrate their graduation.

The scene after the ceremony was the most poignant of the night. The lot next to the football field was filled with proud parents hugging their son or daughter, friends posing for pictures in their caps and gowns, and lots of hugs, tears, and laughter from everyone.

Congratulations and good luck to the Class of 2004!

Daniel Tasselmyer can hardly fit all his hair into the graduation cap.

Clockwise from left, Bill and Shirlty Zelenski, parents of Casey Zelenski, receive his diploma posthumously; Debbie Macri gives daughter Ashley Macri flowers, balloons, and a big kiss for graduation; Katelyn Buckman congratulates Natasha Hennings after the ceremony; John Bevilaqua takes time to thank retiring teacher, John McCarthy for the lessons.
