

Girl Scouts learn to camp, and have fun

Local Girl Scouts recently attended a day camp program at Frances Slocum State Park. This is the ninth year that program directors Deb Serfass and Marjorie Adams have run Camp Mocanaquah. This year's program, called Back To Basics, concentrated on showing the scouts basic camping skills like setting up tents, rolling sleeping bags and outdoor cooking. The campers also enjoyed trips to the pool, a visit from Kathy Kelchner, park naturalist, and a variety of arts and crafts. Over 50 parents and older scouts volunteered throughout the week.
