RAYMOND GARINGER

Guidance counselor and principal

Raymond Arnold "Arnie" Garinger of Harveys Lake died peacefully at home Oct. 9, 2004, of complications related to bladder cancer. He was 71.

Born Sept. 21st, 1933, in the Alderson section of Harveys Lake, he was the only child of Raymond "Bud" and Mildred (Hausch) Garinger, both from Harveys Lake. His wife is the former Marjorie Dawkins, daughter of the late Reverend Carl and Marion Dawkins of Drexel Hill Baptist Church.

Arnie was a 1951 graduate of Lake Township High School and a 1955 graduate of Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He also received a master's degree in Counseling and Guidance in 1960 from Villanova University.

Arnie began his career in education in the Paoli area school system as a teacher of general science for two years. He then became a guidance counselor before being appointed assistant principal at the new Valley Forge Junior High School and eventually principal.

During his early work in education, Arnie took a year off when in 1957 he volunteered for the draft and served basic training in Fort Jackson, S.C., where he qualified as a sharpshooter on the rifle range. He was honorably discharged after one year of service because his teaching skills were considered critical.

After serving two years as principal, Arnie moved to the field of higher education and back to his roots when he was appointed assistant professor and counselor at College Misericordia, Dallas, Pa., in 1969. He spent 24 years at Misericordia before retiring in 1993.

During this period (1971-1986) Arnie also owned and operated, in partnership with the Cumens family, originally from Coatesville, Pa., Onanwandah Family

Campground in Tunkhannock, where he was known fondly as "Uncle Arnie."

Arnie kept his connection with Misericordia well after his retirement as coach of the men's golf team, when he started the program in 1991 with Jack Hoover of Pittston. Arnie and Jack coached the team through 2004. During that time the team won the PAC championship in 1994 and 1998 and placed second in six other seasons. Arnie was named the PAC coach of the year in 1994 and 1998.

During his lifetime, Arnie published several articles — "Ah, Youth? Where Hast Thou Flown," Pennsylvania School Boards Journal, April 1980; "So You Want To Own a Campground," Motorhome Magazine, May 1983; a book "How to Choose a College (and maybe even finish one)," 1988; and numerous letters to the editors of the Times Leader.

Arnie was known for his sense of humor and he stressed often fun and celebration. He cared deeply for the students he taught and counseled and for the people he met as campground owner and throughout his life.

Surviving are his wife, Marjorie, and their four children, Tracy Magda, Hazleton; Wendy Kellam, Bradford Pa.; Amy Brozena, Mountain Top; and Robert Garinger, Montville, N.J.; and six grandchildren, Ryan and Alex Brozena, Jack and Steven Kellam, and Erin and Ian Garinger.

For more information on Arnie and a few examples of his "comical sense" writing you can visit his Web site: <http://arniemarge.tripod.com/>.

Memorial donations may be sent to the Alderson United Methodist Church, Harveys Lake, or College Misericordia in Arnie's honor.

YESTERDAY

Road, Dallas, are patients and roommates at Geisinger Medical Center. The two friends met unexpectedly in the doctor's waiting room as they awaited individual appointments with the same physician. Sheehan underwent surgery on Monday morning. Anderson is under observation.

Dallas had snow on Saturday. It didn't amount to much, but Oct. 10 is still pretty early for snow. Lehman and Sweet Valley areas also had some flakes. All sightings were accompanied by big black clouds and high winds temporarily, and in some cases, hail. Barry Edwards of Idetown tells us the 20-degree temperatures were not matched until the first of December last year.

LAKE AUTHORITY MEMBER REGISTERS PROTEST VOTE

Harveys Lake Sewer Authority secretary Al Gultus, for the second month in a row, voted "no" on payment of bills to authority engineer Glace and Glace at the Oct. 9 meeting of the sewer authority at Lake Elementary School. Mr. Gultus said his reasons for the vote include failure of the Glace Company to send a letter to FHA explaining an expected overrun on select backlog.

Trucksville Fire Chief "Butch" Chamberlain and Shavertown Fire Chief Ted Newcomb, conducted an "attack" on the Westmoreland and Trucksville Elementary schools Oct. 10, to check the time in which students could vacate each school building in case of an emergency. Teachers were given instructions before the drill.

Several hundred Back Mountain residents took advantage of College Misericordia's Health Fair last week, participating in the series of free health tests offered in the college's Kennedy Lounge. Tests for diabetes, hemoglobin deficiencies, tooth plaque and high blood pressure were administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Kingston office, and College Misericordia student nurses.

TWO CONTINUE WAIT FOR TEACHING JOBS

Lake-Lehman school directors failed for the fourth consecutive month to appoint Dwight Barbacci of Noxen and Thomas A. Williams of Sweet Valley to full-time teaching positions in the district. The vote, which was taken during the October board meeting held last Tuesday, was 3-2, with four board members abstaining. Barbacci is currently teaching physical education as a substitute within the district and Williams is teaching as a substitute at the elementary level.

The former Back Mountain Memorial Library buildings located on Main Street, Dallas, have been purchased by the board of deacons of the Calgary Baptist Church. In making the announcement, David Knapp, secretary-treasurer of the board of deacons, said the library board would rent the main building from the church until January 1985, at which time work would be completed at the former school property and the library would be able to conduct all operations under the one roof.

Brian Karolchik, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Karolchik, Davis Street, Trucksville, has extraordinary luck with his first garden. The highlight of his gardening is a nine-foot tomato plant that has grown up over the rain gutter of his house. This Westmoreland kindergarten student treated his garden soil with a combination of wood ashes, coal ashes, grass clippings and rabbit manure. Brian also raised cauliflower, peppers, and in another patch of ground, zucchini.
