Shape Note Singers to gather in Dallas

The Endless Mountain Shape Note Singers will meet Sunday Nov. 7, from 4 to 6 p.m. in Dallas. Singers and interested listeners are welcome; there is no admission. The group sings acappella four-part shape note music, and uses the "Sacred Harp," a collection of sacred songs and anthems, published continuously since 1844. Loaner copies are available. The music is written in standard musical notation, supplemented by shaped note heads, originally intended to accommodate those who could not read music. The event is at Prince of Peace Episcopal Church. The music includes 18th century New England fuging tunes, anthems, folk and gospel hymns, camp-meeting songs from the 19th century and some modern tunes in these traditions. There is no need to proficiently read music, and all are welcome. For information contact David Martin, 333-4007.

'Arsenic and Old Lace' at Misericordia

The College Misericordia players will present Joseph Kesselring's classic farce, "Arsenic and Old Lace," November 19-21 in the Walsh Auditorium on the College Misericordia campus. "Arsenic and Old Lace" is a macabre tale of two charming and innocent ladies, Abby and

Martha Brewster, who populate their cellar with the bodies of lonely old men whom they have "helped find peace," and the antics of their nephews: Teddy, who thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt; Mortimer, the manic theatre critic; and Jonathan, the mad killer with the face of Boris

Karloff. General admission tickets are $5; senior citizens and student admission is $3. Showtimes are 8 p.m. November 19, 20 and 21, and a 2 p.m. matinee on November 21. The play is being directed by Don Hopkins.
