

College Misericordia students sponsor trick-or-canning

The College Misericordia Varsity M Club recently sponsored a Trick-or-Canning as part of their Halloween celebration. College athletes canvassed the local community and collected 300 non-perishable food items. The food was donated to the Back Mountain Food Pantry. From left, first row, Chrissy Heiser, Jeff Ziegler, Emi Yorozu, Ashley Chavez, Nicole Williams and Nicole Smith. Second row, Erick Hart, Varsity M advisor; Matt Carey, Brock Belles, Ryan Weaver, Cara Devine, Brittany Brouse, Andrea Young, Amanda Felte and Rebecca Straub.

Grant provides 75 trees for Misericordia campus

Seventy-five new trees have been planted throughout the College Misericordia campus, thanks to a $20,000 grant the college received last fall from the Pennsylvania Urban and Community Forest Council. Scott Leonard of E. Scott Leonard Associates, a planning and design contractor in Drums, selected a variety of trees for the campus, including red pine, red spire pear, frasier fir, white crabapple, hybrid elms, Chinese dogwood, sourwood, red maple, weeping larch and zelkova trees. Landscapers from Green Valley Landscaping, which won the planting bid, planted the trees last week. The tree planting effort was coordinated with a similar project in Dallas Borough. CM's campus features a variety of existing trees and natural spaces, including pine trees mentioned in the college's alma mater that date back to Misericordia's founding 80 years ago.

Frantz wins Wilkes scholarship

Wilkes University sophomore Richard Frantz, of Dallas, a chemistry major, was the first recipient of The Elizabeth Sandish Montgomery and George Heron Montgomery Scholarship. The award was established by a bequest of Elizabeth Sandish Montgomery and given to a student who resides in Luzerne County. The recipient must demonstrate good moral character and a superior level of scholarship. Frantz, left, is shown with Martin Williams, Wilkes University's Vice President

Ross students go Native

Students from Ross Elementary presented their Native American play and projects to the school community. Students had been studying Native American culture such as tribal homes, customs, art forms, food and ways of life. Students made totem poles, wrote stories using Indian picture writing, and created life size teepees, among other projects during their month-long study. In photo at right, from left front row: Cierra Taylor, Brinley Williams, Brittany Meeker, Lacy Miller, Taylor Kurtz. Back row: Mrs. Bonnie Turchin, Allison Sutton, Katlyn Hodle, Felecia Nevel, Mrs. Carrie Grandzol.
