

P&G Mehoopany awards scholarships

Three area high school students have been awarded college scholarships as part of the Procter & Gamble Fund Scholarship Competition. Local winners are: Andrew O'Hara, Wyoming Seminary; Carrie Olson, Tunkhannock; Coral Stredny, Dallas

The program began in 1978 and more than $17 million has been awarded. This year, the program awarded 184 college scholarships to outstanding students from across the country who are children of P&G employees. Each scholarship provides the winner with a

$2,500 award for full-time study at an accredited college or university. Recipients are selected on the basis of their academic records, test scores, leadership qualifications, extra-curricular activities, work experience, and outside interests.

Chris Clemson honored by Johns Hopkins

The Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth (CTY) recently honored Christopher Clemson, a sixth grader at Dallas Middle School, as a student who has distinguished himself among the brightest academically gifted youth in the country. The Awards Ceremony was held at Bucknell University in Lewisburg to recognize the top scorers in the state of Pennsylvania.

Young people who score at the 97th percentile or higher on school standardized tests are invited by CTY to participate in a rigorous set of above-grade-level exams. Throughout this process, students challenge themselves academically and provide further information about the
